Tax Slashers Near Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Congress ready to recess for Easter, Senate and House negotiators drafting a compromise tax-cut bill are at odds over a tax credit for home buyers and the oil depletion allowance.

Members of the Senate-House conference committee were to try again today in a closed-door meeting to hammer out a compromise that could win quick approval of both chambers and be sent to President Ford.

The conferees agreed Tuesday that the final bill will include a general 10 per cent rebate of last year's taxes up to a $200 maximum. There would be a minimum $100 rebate, except that anybody who paid under $100 last year would just get all of it back.

Under pressure from Ford to reduce the tax cut size, the conferees also began to trim the $34.4 billion tax bill voted by the Senate.

Ford said the final figure must be held down, lest Congress make the bill "so bad it's easy to veto." If Ford vetoes the bill, he might call Congress into special session next week, forcing the lawmakers to give up their own recess. The White House indicated Ford might skip his planned Easter vacation in California to stay in Washington until Congress finishes work on a tax cut.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the conference committee, said the panel would "hopefully finish in time so that Congress can act" on the bill later in the day and then begin a 10-day Easter recess.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., another conferee, was skeptical.

THE Pickaway County Red Cross Chapter has a limited quantity of tornado posters available at the chapter house, 167 Watt St. They may be secured any time during business hours.

The posters offer these suggestions in case a tornado strikes... In office buildings in city and towns, stand in an interior hallway on a lower floor, preferably in the basement.

In factories, a lookout should be posted on receiving a tornado warning... Workers should move quickly to the section of the plant offering the greatest protection.

In homes, the basement usually offers the greatest safety... Seek shelter under a sturdy workbench or heavy table if possible... In a home with no basement take cover under heavy furniture in the center part of the house... Keep some windows open, but stay away from them.

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to overturning during strong winds... Mobile home parks should have a community shelter... A community leader should be responsible for constant radio monitoring during threatening weather.

"We're stuck on oil and housing," he said.

The Senate conferees reportedly are holding out for a tax break for house buyers that allows a buyer to subtract 5 per cent of the cost of the house, up to a maximum of $2,000, from his 1975 tax bill.

The oil depletion allowance, which now allows oil and gas producers to avoid taxation on 22 per cent of their income, also is a point of disagreement. House conferees want it eventually ended for all oil and gas producers; the Senate wants it retained for small producers.

In areas of agreement, the conferees:

—Accepted a $1.5 billion program of special tax cuts for poor working families.

—Settled on a $3.35-billion tax cut for businesses as an incentive to buy machinery and equipment and thus promote expansion and creation of more jobs. They also agreed on a $1.4 billion tax cut aimed chiefly at small businesses.

—Chopped $6.6 billion from the $34.3 billion Senate's package of tax cuts and increased spending.

Also accepted by the conferees was a $200 million Senate provision authorizing an extra 13 weeks of federal unemployment compensation benefits for jobless persons whose one year of benefits has been exhausted.

The conferees cut a $1.7-billion Senate provision on child care to $90 million of benefits for working families who must hire babysitters. They dropped a special $700-million feature designed to encourage home insulation for energy saving.

President Ford proposed a $16.2-billion tax cut, $12.2 billion for individuals and the other $4 billion for business. The House passed a tax cut of $16.2 billion for individuals and $3.6 billion for businesses, making the total $19.8 billion.

The Senate voted to cut individuals' taxes $23.3 billion and business taxes $7.4 billion, for a total $30.7 billion cut.

'Very Dangerous' Storm Churns Into Far West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new spring storm, termed "very dangerous" by forecasters, churned into the central Rockies today and brought warnings and advisories in a dozen states from Canada to the desert Southwest.

Heavy snow, high winds and colder temperatures were the prime ingredients of the second major storm to develop in the West in less than a week. Parts of the northern Plains and upper Great Lakes still were digging out of a blizzard that hit Sunday and Monday.

Winter storm warnings were issued for North and South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Arizona. Warnings to stockmen or travelers were in effect in Idaho, Nevada, Nebraska, Colorado and Southern California. Colorado was alerted for heavy snow as well. A winter storm watch was out for New Mexico.

Seven inches of snow piled into Havre, Mont., 4 inches sifted onto Salt Lake City, and wet snow began at Flagstaff, Ariz., at midnight.

Blowing dust and sand prompted the travel advisories in mountain and desert areas of Southern California.

Light snow from the earlier storm lingered today from the Great Lakes region and upper Ohio Valley into the interior Northeast. Light rain fell in warmer areas along the northern Atlantic Coast.

Melting of heavy snows from previous storms pushed the Rock and Pecatonica rivers in northern Illinois toward record crests, expected today at some points. More than 2,000 persons were out of their homes in the Rockford and Freeport areas.

Science Office Stays Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has decided not to re-establish the White House Office of Science and Technology dismantled by President Richard M. Nixon.

An aide said Ford instead is leaning toward the idea of creating a small board of science advisers, possibly consisting of three consultants.

Ford has been requested by several scientific associations and some well-known individual scientists to bring back the office, which was created by President Dwight D. Eisenhower after Russia launched its first satellite.

The office had been directed by the president's official science adviser and had a 50-member staff. The office advised presidents on science-related issues ranging from energy to food.

Nixon dismantled the office in what was officially described as a move to save money and reduce the bureaucracy.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, who was assigned by the President last December to look into the question of reinstating a White House science advisory body, recently came up with a list of possible options.

"But they didn't jibe with the President's views," and Ford has asked Rockefeller to try to come up with some other ideas, the aide said. Rockefeller's original options were not made public.

Ford's main objection was that he doesn't "want a large new bureaucracy at the White House," the aide said.

After learning of the White House decision, Jeremy Stone, director of the Federation of American Scientists, said:

"If that's all they do, we'll oppose it."

The federation had recommended to Ford creation of a new White House Council on Science and Technology.

Stone said Ford's approach "looked like a sop to the scientific community."

Consumers Still Not Buying

By G.G. LABELLE
Associated Press Writer

The American consumer apparently still is hesitant about buying a new house and a new car to park out front.

Major auto makers reported Tuesday that sales for mid-March remained below last year's levels, and figures from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board showed more mortgage money available but potential home buyers still waiting to see which way the economy is going before buying.

The figures also showed home mortgage rates, headed down recently, may be leveling off.

Railroads were granted a long-sought freight increase, meanwhile, and the stock market had its first up day in a week despite an early drop resulting from uncertainty over possible repercussions from the assassination of Saudi Arabian King Faisal.

On the mortgage front, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported deposits were up over withdrawals at savings and loans at a higher rate last month than in January and only slightly below the records of January 1972 and 1973. Scarcity of money for home loans last summer and fall was a primary factor in the housing slump.

Despite the fresh supply of lendable money, the bank board's monthly report showed volume of loans for February, at $1.1 billion, still $201 million below a year ago, though up $122 million over January.

The indication of a firming up in home mortgage rates came from the Federal National Mortgage Association, which provides the closest thing to a national barometer of home loan rate trends. Its latest figures showed rates up for the first time since September.

For federally insured loans the average rate was 8.847 per cent, compared to a 8.781 per cent rate two weeks ago. For loans insured conventionally, the average rate was 8.997, compared to 8.962 per cent two weeks earlier.

The association's figures also indicated, however, that lenders are at least preparing for a heavier loan volume in the months ahead.

Meanwhile, the nation's major automakers said mid-March sales were 29 per cent below a year ago. The year earlier sales were relatively good due to promotions aimed at overcoming consumer fears of gas shortages, but the latest figures were still the lowest in 14 years.

The sales rate in mid-March was up 12 per cent from early March, the first period since rebates of up to $600 were stopped at all the companies but Chrysler Corp.

In recent years, however, mid-March sales have been up an average 30 per cent over early-March. Last year they were up 50 per cent because of the sales contests launched to counteract the Mideast oil embargo.

Analysts had expected a sharp post-rebate sales drop in early-March, but sales were down only 3.4 per cent from the year before.

The Dow Jones industrial average was down almost 10 at one point Tuesday but closed 4.46 on the plus side, at 747.89. Analysts said the upswing started with reports the news Saudi leaders would be friendly to the United States.

In Washington, the Interstate Commerce Commission granted railroads a 7 per cent freight rate increase on commodities including most foods and coal and oil. Exempted were materials for troubled industries such as autos, auto parts, lumber and construction material.

The new rate is expected to become effective early in April.

Housing Market Awaiting Buyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crippled housing market has seen interest rates decline recently. Mortgage lending institutions report more and more money is available for home buyers. But the market's still waiting for the buyers.

While the number of starts on new houses remain about 40 per cent below a year ago and the mood of home buyers remains cautious, officials are encouraged by the developments in the lending markets.

The latest encouragement for home buyers, home builders and the economy in general came Tuesday in the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's report that in February people deposited $3.1 billion more than they withdrew at savings and loan institutions for the second month in a row. A third $3 billion month is expected for March.

As recently as last September deposits were shrinking by $1 billion a month, drying up what is the industry's largest source of loans. The flood of new money now means easier credit for buyers and builders.

But the Federal Home Loan Bank Board report showed that the new money has not prompted a rush of home buyers eager to get loans.

The volume of loans for February was up only $122 million over January and still $201 million below a year ago.

The small number of loans means "the consumer just isn't in the home-buying mood," said Kenneth J. Thygeson, an economist for the U.S. League of Savings and Loan Associations.

"Our people are actively promoting loans. We're willing and able to lend the money," Thygeson said. "But we still have an awful lot of uncertainty in this economy."

Thygeson said he was encouraged by the increase in February of nearly $1 billion in loan offers by savings and loan associations. It was the first significant increase in loan commitments since April.

But he said consumers still appear reluctant to take on sizeable new obligations because inflation has reduced the spending power of their take-home pay by 5 per cent over the last year.

And the 10 per-cent-a-year inflation in new home prices over the last two years also has dampened the housing market.

But Thygeson said he expects builders to react with stripped-down, lower-priced houses this year.

and made their pledges.

The hundreds of Saudis in the royal court and thousands of citizens massed outside the government palace chanted "God is great" and "May Allah be with you."

A sobbing radio announcer reported that King Khaled burst into tears, starting a chain reaction among the audience.

There was no official word on the fate of Faisal's assassin, who the Saudi radio said earlier was a mentally deranged nephew of the king. Some Beirut newspapers said Faisal's bodyguards killed him. Others said he was arrested and would be beheaded after the funeral.

One Beirut newspaper reported that Faisal pardoned him as he lay dying, saying: "Have mercy on him. I feel no hate for him."

King Khaled in the first public statement of his reign pledged to follow Faisal's policies.

"I beseech Allah to have mercy on our great departed leader and seek the Almighty's support to help me carry on his mission," said the statement, which was read over the government radio by Information Minister Ibrahim el Angary.

Diplomats in Beirut interpreted this as a pledge to continue seeking friendship with the United States and other Western powers while contributing liberally from Saudi Arabia's vast oil revenues to pressure on Israel to withdraw from East Jerusalem and all other Arab territories occupied in the 1967 war.

Prayers were to be said over

Faisal's body for most of the day, and at sunset the remains were to be buried in an unmarked grave, in accordance with the tenets of the Wahhabi Moslem sect.

There was speculation that he would be buried beside his father, King Ibn Saud, who is buried somewhere on the outskirts of Riyadh.

Foreign leaders gathered in Riyadh to pay their respects to the dead king and his successor. President Ford sent Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller to express the U.S. government's condolences.

The official Saudi radio said the assassin, Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed, fired several shots into his uncle's body during a general audience Tuesday on the occasion of the birthday of the Prophet Mohammed.

Prince Faisal is reported to be 27, a graduate in political science from the University of Colorado and a former student at San Francisco State College and the University of California at Berkeley.

The Saudi radio said the young prince was "mentally deranged." The Arizona Republic, published in Phoenix, Ariz., said a member of the Saudi royal family told it by telephone that Prince Faisal was a religious fanatic who killed his uncle because the police killed the prince's brother during a religious demonstration in 1966.

Al Ahram said Prince Faisal's father, named Musaed and a half-brother of King Faisal, was once imprisoned by the king for killing an unidentified person.

Faisal Rites Held; Leaders Back Khaled

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saudi Arabia's leaders pledged allegiance today to weeping King Khaled as the body of his assassinated older brother, King Faisal, was prepared for burial in an unmarked grave.

A live broadcast from Riyadh, the Saudi capital, described the ceremony at which the new 62-year-old king and his 53-year-old brother, Crown Prince Fahd, received pledges of allegiance from princes of the royal family, military commanders, Moslem religious leaders, Bedouin tribal chiefs and commoners.

Khaled, and Fahd at his side, were dressed in traditional flowing white robes with brown cloaks trimmed with gold. For 90 minutes, the new king's subjects approached the throne one by one, placed their hands on the Koran,

Exceptional Children's Week To Start April 6

The period April 6th through the 12th is Exceptional Children's Week. At present there are some eighteen classrooms offering specialized services to children in the schools of Pickaway County.

In addition to classes serving the special education child and groups of learning disability pupils, there are units of youngsters requiring speech and hearing therapy. Work study programs at each of the county high schools have been in operation during this school year.

Special education classes are designed to give specialized instruction to those pupils whose intellectual maturation has not made the rate of advancement of other children. The curricular content of the instructional program for these youngsters is designed to take into account this lack in mental growth. It is geared to the needs of individual students.

Learning disability classes are planned to serve children whose characteristics indicate normal development but who are troubled by one or more deficits in the essential learning processes, requiring special techniques for remediation. Some of these processes include impairment in laterality, conceptual disorder, impairment in directionality and poor gross motor skills. It is the goal of the teacher in this instance to help such children to regain the knowledge they have fallen behind in and return once more full time to the group of their peers.

The Pickaway County Board of Education and local districts make every effort to provide children with the best of services possible. A coordinator for the work study program working out of the county office is provided for the local districts. In this operation, students who experience learning difficulties are provided opportunities to go to school half-time and work half-time as high school juniors and work full-time as seniors. This gives students an opportunity to gain actual on-the-job experience, teaching them qualities of dependability and resourcefulness. Many students continue in the same type of work upon graduation.

Another service is the speech, hearing and language program. Each local school district is now receiving the services of a full-time, highly trained, specialized therapist working out of the county office. Approximately one-hundred students per therapist will receive treatment in a given year. Although each child in the program presents varying degrees of defects, the majority are completely cured and the severely handicapped child has shown marked improvement. This service, along with a quality basic education, is assisting children to be able to communicate with their contemporaries and fully utilize their formal education.

A quality psychological program is a feature offered by the Pickaway County Board of Education. Services offered by these fully certificated personnel include the conducting of testing programs designed to determine progress made in certain areas, the location of children needing a specialized program and various other offerings as a service to teachers which includes prescriptive teaching for individual students with diagnosed problems.

Parents of all students are urged to visit their school and become aware of the full significance of the programs which are designed especially for the exceptional child. In this way, an understanding of the dedication of teachers of special children will be gained. Don't forget the date April 6th through the 12th.

Auto Damage Suit Limitations Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Placing a "reasonable lawsuit limitation on relatively minor injuries" is the only way to avoid increasing automobile insurance premiums, a spokesman for a major Ohio insurer contends.

Richard G. Chilcott, senior vice president of the Nationwide Insurance Companies, told a House committee Tuesday he favors most but not all of the provisions in one of two pending bills to establish a system of no-fault insurance in the state.

Chilcott referred to a measure by Rep. Ronald H. Weyandt, D-43 Akron, that would prohibit lawsuits for injuries unless they resulted in medical bills exceeding $1,500.

The Nationwide official called Weyandt's bill a "genuine no-fault plan," and added that "any system that does not include a reasonable lawsuit limitation can only add to the cost of insurance."

Spokesmen for the Ohio State Bar Association appeared before the House Insurance, Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee not only to oppose Weyandt's and a second no-fault bill, but to plug a bill of their own known as "auto pay" insurance.

Walter A. Porter, immediate past president of the OSBA, noting that lawyers in past years were accused of seeking to block no-fault because it would cut down on legal clients, told the committee "we intend to enthusiastically work for the passage of our own bill."

Under "auto pay," which he defined as "automatic payment," an insured motorist could collect automatically for medical expenses of up to $2,500. However, suits could be brought as a result of any accident. Porter said the "tort" system involves a constitutional right and "should be preserved."

Chairman William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, plans a third hearing on the measures at the end of a legislative recess two weeks from now. After that, he said he intends to put them into a subcommittee to determine if a single bill can be agreed upon.

EMR Team Gets Ready For Vehicle

Members of the Circleville Squad of the Emergency Medical Team met recently to make plans to become operational upon the arrival of the emergency vehicle which has been ordered. President John Adkins reported that the expected delivery date for the vehicle is late May.

Committees were formed to complete estimates for equipment and operating expenses for the first year of operation and to study modifications in the storage building to be used to house the vehicle at Berger Hospital. Work is continuing on the formulation of a guide to streets and roads in Circleville and the surrounding townships.

The second class of emergency medical technicians has completed its initial 60-hour course and plans were made to begin their training in vital signs. The third phase of training, a 24-hour course in the Berger Hospital emergency room, is tentatively scheduled to begin around the middle of April for this class. Members of the first class have been continuing to assist in the emergency room since completing their training program in December. An additional training course in intravenous techniques is being considered for this group.

By the end of May all the members of the first two classes will have completed at least 86 hours of specialized training and will be ready to begin providing emergency care to the community. Additional personnel will be needed to provide effective coverage and applications are being received for a third class. Persons who are interested should contact John Adkins, 474-3852, or Ernie Lindsey, 474-7492 to obtain an application.

Police Find Revolver While Questioning Man

Circleville Police charged Wade R. Price, Columbus, with carrying a concealed weapon after a snub-nosed .38 caliber revolver was found in his jacket pocket following a routine "frisk" Wednesday morning.

Police said Price was a suspect in a grand larceny attempt by trick at the Second National Bank.

According to the report, a man identified as Price opened a $25 account at the branch office of the bank March 12. On the same day, he is alleged to have opened an account in a Grove City bank with a check for $2,750 drawn on his Second Bank account.

Price apparently attempted to deposit a $200 check at the main office of the Second National Bank Wednesday morning. The check was drawn on a private account from the Bartlett Farmers Bank, Bartlett.

Sgt. Larry Pontious, and Ptl. Ron Thompson and Jim Francis discovered the weapon while questioning Price in the bank's parking lot.

James Taylor, 315 Watt St., told police that thieves ripped the door hasp from the casing and pryed loose a night lock in gaining access to his building.

Thieves pryed a window at the 225 Second Ave. house owned by Ancel Skaggs to gain entry into the east bedroom.

Auto Damage Suit Limitations Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Placing a "reasonable lawsuit limitation on relatively minor injuries" is the only way to avoid increasing automobile insurance premiums, a spokesman for a major Ohio insurer contends.

Richard G. Chilcott, senior vice president of the Nationwide Insurance Companies, told a House committee Tuesday he favors most but not all of the provisions in one of two pending bills to establish a system of no-fault insurance in the state.

Chilcott referred to a measure by Rep. Ronald H. Weyandt, D-43 Akron, that would prohibit lawsuits for injuries unless they resulted in medical bills exceeding $1,500.

The Nationwide official called Weyandt's bill a "genuine no-fault plan," and added that "any system that does not include a reasonable lawsuit limitation can only add to the cost of insurance."

Spokesmen for the Ohio State Bar Association appeared before the House Insurance, Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee not only to oppose Weyandt's and a second no-fault bill, but to plug a bill of their own known as "auto pay" insurance.

EMR Team Gets Ready For Vehicle

Members of the Circleville Squad of the Emergency Medical Team met recently to make plans to become operational upon the arrival of the emergency vehicle which has been ordered. President John Adkins reported that the expected delivery date for the vehicle is late May.

Committees were formed to complete estimates for equipment and operating expenses for the first year of operation and to study modifications in the storage building to be used to house the vehicle at Berger Hospital. The second class of emergency medical technicians has completed its initial 60-hour course and plans were made to begin their training in vital signs. The third phase of training, a 24-hour course in the Berger Hospital emergency room, is tentatively scheduled to begin around the middle of April for this class. Members of the first class have been continuing to assist in the emergency room since completing their training program in December. An additional training course in intravenous techniques is being considered for this group.

By the end of May all the members of the first two classes will have completed at least 86 hours of specialized training and will be ready to begin providing emergency care to the community. Additional personnel will be needed to provide effective coverage and applications are being received for a third class. Persons who are interested should contact John Adkins, 474-3852, or Ernie Lindsey, 474-7492 to obtain an application.

Police Find Revolver While Questioning Man

Circleville Police charged Wade R. Price, Columbus, with carrying a concealed weapon after a snub-nosed .38 caliber revolver was found in his jacket pocket following a routine "frisk" Wednesday morning.

Police said Price was a suspect in a grand larceny attempt by trick at the Second National Bank.

According to the report, a man identified as Price opened a $25 account at the branch office of the bank March 12. On the same day, he is alleged to have opened an account in a Grove City bank with a check for $2,750 drawn on his Second Bank account.

Price apparently attempted to deposit a $200 check at the main office of the Second National Bank Wednesday morning. The check was drawn on a private account from the Bartlett Farmers Bank, Bartlett.

Sgt. Larry Pontious, and Ptl. Ron Thompson and Jim Francis discovered the weapon while questioning Price in the bank's parking lot.

James Taylor, 315 Watt St., told police that thieves ripped the door hasp from the casing and pryed loose a night lock in gaining access to his building.

The thieves took two Holley car-burators valued at $100 each, an eight-band radio, a Black and Decker 3/4-inch drill, and a Dayton 1/2-inch drill.

Thieves pryed a window at the 225 Second Ave. house owned by Ancel Skaggs to gain entry into the east bedroom.

After ransacking dressers in the room, they escaped with an electric radio valued at $59.95.

The Pickaway Shrine Club observed Ladies Night Monday evening at R&N Steeles.

Dewey Downs, membership chairman, was presented the Quota Busting Award by Charles Dougherty of the Chillicothe Shrine Club for recruiting the most new members in the recent membership drive. formances by the cowboys count toward world championship points.

The sanctioned contest events include bareback bronc riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, saddle bronc riding, cowgirls barrel racing and bull riding.

Over 175 cowboys and cowgirls from all over the nation are expected to enter for the anticipated $12,000 prize money that will be offered.

Cowboys are not employees of the rodeo but are independent athletes and pay a $40 entry fee for each contest they enter. There are 4,500 cowboys who are members of the International Rodeo Assn. and there are from 10 to 12 sanctioned rodeos going on each week somewhere in the country during the season.

Stan Steen, a former cowboy himself and a member of the Longhorn management and production team, said that 23 present or former world champions are expected at Columbus.

In addition to the six major sanctioned events there will be specialty acts featuring schooled horses, the bullfighting rodeo clowns, the Longhorn Pony Express, trick roping and plenty of good clean comedy.

The Longhorn Rodeo is coming to Columbus for the first time and is the same rodeo that appears in many of the major coliseums and arenas from Texas to Madison Square Garden.

Railroad Rate Increase OKd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission today granted the nation's railroads permission to increase freight rates 7 per cent.

But in its order the ICC exempted hard hit industries such as automobile manufacturers and construction from the freight rate boost.

The ICC order permits the increases to become effective 15 days after formal public notice. A commission spokesman said rates probably would be increased effective in the second week in april.

Among the items exempted from the increase were motor vehicles, motor vehicle part and motor vehicle equipment. Also exempted was lumber.

Glenn Pushes Legislation To Expand Power Of Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation has been introduced by Sen. John H. Glenn, D-Ohio, that would require all executive agreements to undergo Senate advice and consent procedures.

Under the bill, the Senate would have 60 days to act on any international agreement involving United States resources.

Failure to act within that time period places the executive agreement into effect.

Glenn said the executive agreement device is a major cause of the dilemma America faces in Indochina.

"We've apparently conducted an eight-year war almost by executive agreement," he said. "That should never be permitted to happen again."

Glenn said the nation has many other "long-standing international commitments, formally approved by no one but a few, if not just one individual, in the executive branch."

The Ohio senator's proposal would also permit the President to designate a proposed agreement as "secret."

In that case, the agreement would be reviewed by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Glenn said executive agreements are replacing treaties as the principal international accords involving the U.S.

Citing Library of Congress figures, he noted that through 1974 the U.S. had concluded 411 treaties, which are subject to Senate advice and consent, and 6,113 executive agreements.

"Such a system, with no checks, can have grave consequences in today's world climate if the President becomes physically or mentally incapacitated or under duress," Glenn said.

A similar bill was introduced by former Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina in the last session of Congress.

Ervin was then head of the Government Operations Committee that Glenn now serves on.

The measure was approved by the Senate but the House failed to act on it.

Gene Experimentation

Genetic engineering, or gene manipulation as some scientists prefer to call it, has been on the back burner of the scientific kitchen almost from the day it was discovered genes are the transmitters deciding heredity. The reason for the scientific curiosity is simple enough: eliminating genetic malfunctions which cause diseases and physical or mental handicaps.

But the investigation is not that simple. The ethical considerations are overwhelming. The success in the laboratory which can correct an inherited hormone deficiency might also be used for other, more controversial purposes.

Laboratory investigation nevertheless goes on, even while the ethical questions remained unresolved. Scientists from 16 nations attended a conference in California in February to adopt stricter guidelines on genetic experimentation. The new professional standards have moral force only, but a large enough segment of the scientific world at work in the field attended to give them substance.

Dilemma Of Vietnam

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — As more and more of South Vietnam went down the drain, Henry Kissinger said with a trace of indignation that he never would have entered into the cease-fire negotiations if he had known that Congress would one day fail to back up the Saigon government.

It would seem to follow that Kissinger, who won the Nobel Peace Prize for his endeavors, expected aid-to-South Vietnam to last forever. Vietnamese Communists will never cease their efforts to unite that land under their banner. They are missionaries, godless but much more disciplined than the South Vietnamese on whom we bet our blood and fortune.

Sen. Hugh Scott, the minority leader, is appalled by the reluctance of the Congressional majority to spend another dime in a war that cost the country 359,859 dead and wounded — the just debts of which, in pensions and care, will be a concern of the taxpayers well into the 21st century. Scott sees the nation swinging back to a state of mulish isolation it knew in the days leading up to the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

The Senate's Majority Leader, Mike Mansfield, takes the completely opposite view that no amount of money or armor can save South Vietnam at this 11th hour.

That is true. To hand President Nuygen Van Thieu another blank check and bestow a mountain of arms upon his troops would not halt the advance of the enemy for more than a week or two. It would not reverse the long lines of refugees flowing into a southland already choked with impoverished people.

Moreover, such last-ditch aid would be futile unless Americans were rushed there to shoot the guns, fly the planes, drop the napalm, and man the tanks.

Any such action by President Gerald Ford and the Congress, or a return to the only recently discarded draft, would cause unprecedented turmoil in the U.S. There would be protests that would pale anything that happened during the time of our participation in the war, including the demonstrations by 250,000 in Washington on November 15, 1969, and the record arrest of 12,614 people during the demonstrations of May 3-5, 1970.

The only beneficiaries of such a return to a discredited war policy would be the airlines, jammed with young Americans defecting to Canada and Sweden.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen portrays the President as one who is watching the collapse of South Vietnam "closely and with considerable concern." Others share that reaction. We were happy to pull our military out of the most exasperating war into which the American flag has ever been carried. But many will have fond memories of some of those gentle brown people they came to know while there. And vice versa.

American troops sired 15,000 children during the war, as in every war wherein men have come from far places to fight many foes — including homosexuality. A fairly large number of the fathers send money from the U.S. to help the mothers support their children, whose mixed blood is a great handicap to them in their everyday lives.

Hundreds of Vietnam orphans have been adopted by American, Canadian and European families, thanks to the diligence and devotion of persons like Rosemary Taylor, a beautiful Australian nurse and administrator who somehow manages to keep four nursery-clinics alive in Saigon. For every Lt. Calley (and there were very few of them) there were dozens of American kids in uniform who contributed their money, food, medicine and tender loving care to orphanages such as Rosemary's place, Madam Ngai's An Loc haven, and the safe harbors of the missionaries.

When-if the whole thing goes, the condition of the average South Vietnam rice farmer, the middle class bureaucracy, the swarms of shoeshine boys in the cities, and the impenetrable traffic jam of bicycles, belching motor-bikes, and beat-up Renaults, probably will not change very much.

The honky-tonks where Saigon's prostitutes lean in the doorways may be turned into bookstores stocked with volumes of "The Thoughts of Mao." The new mob will have no trouble with Saigon's 20-odd newspapers. It will just shut them down and replace them with the one Big Brother owns. And some day in the future we'll send Henry over there to set up a detente.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Some of these businesses should fail," said Arch Booth, contending that federal subsidies for companies threatened with collapse might not be in the best interests of the nation.

"We've got a fine record of giving birth to new companies in this country," said Booth, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Subsidies, he said, "would tend to preserve the weak, inferior ones." bkunun

He continued: "So many people, even those in positions of leadership, are trying to find out how to get more out of the federal government."

Arch Booth, 68, reflected on changes during his more than 30 years with the national chamber, 25 of them as top administrative officer, the past five as chief spokesman, during which he voiced an opinion on every major business issue.

"I am a determined man but we're suffering some losses," Booth conceded. "It is a changing battle, an evolution of values. I'm aware I sometimes stand on an unpopular side."

Here are some other observations by Booth, who retires next month although he will remain a director of the chamber:

MERCHANTS AND CUSTOMERS — "The customer is more valued today. The only way to succeed is to have a satisfied customer, and business is working at it. It's an evolutionary thing."

"People are more demanding, but we've got better informed management by far today than 30 years ago. Better educated and more sensitive to customers' desires. And competition is tougher."

"The way to live with competition is to live more effectively with the customer. Give better service and quality, and stand behind it."

PROFITS — "There's a prejudice against profits. It's a never-ending challenge to explain, why they are needed, why profits are in the interest of the job holder."

"The nation may regret bitterly not taking steps to encourage savings, investments and the creation of investment capital. If we are going to make more jobs in this country year after year we've got to encourage individuals to save money and invest it. And we're going to have to make it possible for business to make a profit and reinvest it."

"Maybe we shouldn't talk about profits. If a company says profits are higher it is thought to be making too much. Maybe we should emphasize savings — a business being able to make some savings so that out of such savings it can spend for new equipment and new plants."

REPUTATION OF BUSINESS — "What distresses me is to read in the newspapers about charges that the oil industry is gouging everyone and making unimaginable profits, manipulating."

The assumption that businessmen are crooked "sets us back light years in our ability to be credible with the kids in schools and the folks out there buying."

"I don't know — the charges haven't been proven but they are treated that way. It's quite possible. They're human beings, and so far as I know none wear halos, and human beings are obsessed by greed."

"But, it could be a misunderstanding, a distortion, and we should keep our minds open until we know what the truth is."

PRESENT ECONOMY — "We're not in a depression. We're off our stride, but not in a depression, if you use the 1930s as an index."

WORK ETHIC — "So many people live by subsidies and transfers there isn't necessarily an incentive to work. I'm not talking down, but the safeguards today do change the attitude of the individual about work."

TAXES — "Regressive. They put something of a penalty on incentive, extra work, and we're badly in need of improving productivity. Everyone of us has a need to produce more."

Taxes, he said, have dulled the free enterprise spirit. "We don't have it to the same degree today. Those men of the early days," he said, referring to some of the founders of industry, "would have been discouraged by the tax laws."

"The tax system is heavily weighted against growth, risk, entrepreneurship. I see it in my own situation. I'm not through growing; I want to grow a bit in the next few years, but I can't afford to make more money because it will go to the federal income tax."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I noticed that I become very uncomfortable when I go to a high altitude. This happened in Mexico City, and twice while I was skiing. It seems that I'm the only one who's bothered.

Miss R.W., Neb.

Dear Miss W.: It is difficult to understand why some people are affected more than others by "mountain sickness."

Mountain climbers, skiers and ordinary travelers who are suddenly transported to high altitudes may develop dizziness, rapid respiration, headache, a sense of weakness and an increased heart rate.

Many people affected by altitude complain that, for a day or two, they are unable to sleep.

Dr. Maurice J. Leon, of the Montclair Community Hospital in New Jersey, has been particularly interested in the condition and has made some helpful suggestions.

He says, "When a trip to a high altitude is anticipated it is prudent to decrease the total food intake and increase the carbohydrate proportion . . . It is often helpful to carry hard candy as a dietary supplement."

"A barbiturate, taken for one or two nights before and the first few nights after the traveler's arrival, will minimize the insomnia."

Delicious Sins

By JIM BISHOP

I did it. Sometime ago I wrote a short dissertation — I almost wrote dessert — on Bishop's Fat Slob Diet. It works. Really-true. The bathroom scales used to read 184. Now they balance nicely at 164, and I wear safety pins in the waistlines of trousers.

The Bishops were never a skinny family. They believed that, next to sex, food is the most fun without laughing there is of. (Parse that one again.) I still have a slight pot in front but, as my old man told me, this is the last thing to go. Assuming it has any intention of going.

I think I understand the genesis of being overweight. Fifty years ago there was a lot of tuberculosis. The sick were skinny. In addition, most of our forebears came from the poverty of Europe.

It's difficult to recall a rich immigrant. Most of them went through Ellis Island like undernourished cattle, with doctors looking down their throats, percuting their chests, and hanging a tag on each one with name, nativity, destination and a railroad ticket.

When they married, they didn't want slender babies. They hoped for fat Kewpie dolls with round heads, no necks, bursting bellies and wrists of fat. They fed fattening foods to their babies, and the youngsters couldn't kick the habit when they grew up.

My mother often kneaded her own flour and baked her own bread. Her biscuits, almost too hot to hold, with a slab of butter sliding on top had the same effect as a tranquilizer. And don't forget the potatoes—mashed with a lake of brown gravy, home fries, hashed brown, baked — ah! You like creamed carrots? How about a slab of roast beef or a baked ham with homemade English mustard?

Goodbye to all that. Farewell to the box of butterscotch in bed while watching the late show. Farewell to the sharp cheddar and Saltines while reading. Adieu dear friends of my stomach; I feel like a traitor.

Our worst fault in ingestion, I feel, is that we refuse to believe that we cannot drink or eat at 40 what we got away with at 20. At 50, we must retreat even further. It takes more than will power. The important aspect is won't power.

These days, I daydream about the sumptuous restaurants where Kelly and I dined. The Ashoka Hotel in New Delhi served endless varieties of lamb and rice. The Hindu waiters wore bright orange turbans and white uniforms. They looked like walking ice cream cones.

Skiers and travelers who have followed his suggestions by also eliminating tobacco and alcohol have markedly reduced the headache and nausea that may result from high altitudes.

It would be wise, of course, to find out if there are any special medical reasons for your discomfort.

How can you unspoil a five-year old child who is demanding, has temper tantrums and runs our house?

Mrs. J.E.L., N.C.

Dear Mrs. L.:

You are undoubtedly a few years late getting started in the process of "unspoiling" your child. Over-permissiveness and overindulgence can do both the child and the parent a great injustice.

Unfortunately, many children can actually terrorize a household of adults.

My suggestion is that you set up firm, but reasonable, rules and insist that your child conform to them. Unreasonable or harsh punishment is not the way to solve the problem.

It is an established rule that the limits established for children by their parents contribute as much to their security as the love that is given them. Be kind to your child . . . learn how to say, "No."

Hosteria Dell'Orso in Rome is great in antiquity, but America has a finer Italian restaurant. It's Casa Santino in Miami, Florida. When I am in that area, I say, "To hell with the diet." It is the only place where neither of us study the menu. Just tell the captain, "Bring dinner." Three hours later the waiter may wheel you out on a cart.

Everyone likes the wharf section of San Francisco for food, but I'll take the superb dining room and romantic music at the Mark Hopkins. We took Dr. Lester Keiser there once. Overcome by the romance he almost married the waitress.

Maxim's in Paris is seductive in atmosphere and memories. In London, I stay at the Savoy and eat at Les Ambassadeurs. The best Japanese restaurant, in my estimation, is not in Tokyo. It's a small, enamel-tabled place outside the city of Honolulu. It looks like a hamburger joint, but oh, those steaks!

America has a host of fine seafood palaces, but again I must give the nod to Florida. Any tourist in Miami Beach who hasn't tried Joe's Stone Crabs is living on less than he deserves.

In New York, when Toots Shor had a restaurant, it was my hangout. He served a bowl of beef stew and a half-loaf of bread guaranteed to make a pig out of a guru. In our family, going to Shor's was like attending church on Sunday.

The Peninsula House in Hong Kong and the Oriental Hotel in Bangkok were good, but lacked the greatness of some of the others. But then, greatness is relative. Years ago I was addicted to the kosher frankfurters at the Diplomat Hotel. Two, and a plate of beans, make the subsequent burping appear to be smiles.

Good fattening food and I are no longer friends. I won't eat the salads because the dressing is fattening. Besides, rabbits eat that stuff and they have a bad rep along certain biological lines.

Breakfast: four cups of coffee. Lunch: bowl of cottage cheese with chopped green peppers, onions and salt. Dinner: Any lean, unmarbled meat, accompanied by string beans, stewed tomatoes, stewed corn. Dessert: All the plain Jello you can eat.

Ah, how I long to return to the delicious sins of youth. There are lovely ways to kill yourself. . .

A Page Of Opinion

Gene Experimentation

Genetic engineering, or gene manipulation as some scientists prefer to call it, has been on the back burner of the scientific kitchen almost from the day it was discovered genes are the transmitters deciding heredity. The reason for the scientific curiosity is simple enough: eliminating genetic malfunctions which cause diseases and physical or mental handicaps. But the investigation is not that simple. The ethical considerations are overwhelming. The success in the laboratory which can correct an inherited hormone deficiency might also be used for other, more controversial purposes. Laboratory investigation nevertheless goes on, even while the ethical questions remained unresolved. Scientists from 16 nations attended a conference in California in February to adopt stricter guidelines on genetic experimentation. The new professional standards have moral force only, but a large enough segment of the scientific world at work in the field attended to give them substance.

Dilemma Of Vietnam

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — As more and more of South Vietnam went down the drain, Henry Kissinger said with a trace of indignation that he never would have entered into the cease-fire negotiations if he had known that Congress would one day fail to back up the Saigon government.

It would seem to follow that Kissinger, who won the Nobel Peace Prize for his endeavors, expected aid-to-South Vietnam to last forever. Vietnamese Communists will never cease their efforts to unite that land under their banner. They are missionaries, godless but much more disciplined than the South Vietnamese on whom we bet our blood and fortune.

Sen. Hugh Scott, the minority leader, is appalled by the reluctance of the Congressional majority to spend another dime in a war that cost the country 359,859 dead and wounded — the just debts of which, in pensions and care, will be a concern of the taxpayers well into the 21st century. Scott sees the nation swinging back to a state of mulish isolation it knew in the days leading up to the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

The Senate's Majority Leader, Mike Mansfield, takes the completely opposite view that no amount of money or armor can save South Vietnam at this 11th hour.

That is true. To hand President Nuygen Van Thieu another blank check and bestow a mountain of arms upon his troops would not halt the advance of the enemy for more than a week or two. It would not reverse the long lines of refugees flowing into a southland already choked with impoverished peoples.

Moreover, such last-ditch aid would be futile unless Americans were rushed there to shoot the guns, fly the planes, drop the napalm, and man the tanks.

Any such action by President Gerald Ford and the Congress, or a return to the only recently discarded draft, would cause unprecedented turmoil in the U.S. There would be protests that would pale anything that happened during the time of our participation in the war, including the demonstrations by 250,000 in Washington on November 15, 1969, and the record arrest of 12,614 people during the demonstrations of May 3-5, 1970.

The only beneficiaries of such a return to a discredited war policy would be the airlines, jammed with young Americans defecting to Canada and Sweden.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen portrays the President as one who is watching the collapse of South Vietnam "closely and with considerable concern." Others share that reaction. We were happy to pull our military out of the most exasperating war into which the American flag has ever been carried. But many will have fond memories of some of those gentle brown people they came to know while there. And vice versa.

American troops sired 15,000 children during the war, as in every war wherein men have come from far places to fight many foes — including homesickness. A fairly large number of the fathers send money from the U.S. to help the mothers support their children, whose mixed blood is a great handicap to them in their everyday lives.

Hundreds of Vietnam orphans have been adopted by American, Canadian and European families, thanks to the diligence and devotion of persons like Rosemary Taylor, a beautiful Australian nurse and administrator who somehow manages to keep four nursery-clinics alive in Saigon. and tender loving care to orphanages such as Rosemary's place, Madam Ngai's An Loc haven, and the safe harbors of the missionaries.

When-if the whole thing goes, the condition of the average South Vietnam rice farmer, the middle class bureaucracy, the swarms of shoeshine boys in the cities, and the impetuous traffic jam of bicycles, belching motor-bikes, and beat-up Renaults, probably will not change very much.

Broad Support Given Jesus By Fellow Jews

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third article in a five-part Easter series about the Jewishness of Jesus, dealing with the response of fellow Jews to him in his day.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Both admiration and controversy swirled about Jesus. Thousands of fellow Jews acclaimed his ways and teachings, and the support built to an emotional crescendo on that final entry into Jerusalem.

"Hosannah to the son of David!" Welcomers packed the roadside, tossing garments and palm branches in his path. "Hosannah! Blessed be he who comes in the name of the Lord, even the king of Israel!"

The fervent reaction had trailed him throughout his ministry. The ordinary Jewish citizenry flocked to him, both in rural Galilee and cosmopolitan Judea, fascinated by his insights, his flashing directness, his healing touch.

"The people pressed about him to hear the word of God," Luke 5:1 notes. Similar evidence runs throughout the record. "His fame spread" (Matthew 4:24); waiting assemblies "ran up to him and greeted him" (Mark 9:14); the "crowds marveled" (Matthew 9:33); multitudes "thronged about him" (Mark 5:25); "Large crowds followed him" (Matthew 19:1); "The great throng heard him gladly" (Mark 12:37).

Once, on the seashore, he had to speak from a rocking boat because of the crush (Mark 4:1); listeners packed a synagogue to overflowing, "even about the door" (Mark 2:1); his relatives "could not reach him for the crowd" (Luke 8:19); one group piled into a fleet of boats, hunting him (John 6:24).

So great was the milling about him he could hardly find a chance to eat (Mark 3:20); once, a multitude sought to "take him by force and make him king," but he slipped away (John 6:15).

"Never was anything like this seen in Israel," went a common reaction, noted in Matthew 9:33. "Many believed in him," says John 7:13. Israel's general populace appreciated this heart-stirring rabbi from Nazareth.

Yet, despite this widespread Jewish esteem for him in his lifetime, and the fact that all his chosen assistants were Jew, the church that evolved in his name, that stemmed from Judaism, that used a Bible produced by Jews, including the New Testament, except for Luke and Acts, has flickered over the years with anti-Jewishness.

It is an odd circumstance, which many church bodies now are reassessing and trying to rectify.

The church is "rooted in the life of the people of Israel," says a 1973 analysis drawn up by a group of leading theologians for the National Council of Churches. "Whatever the anti-Semite inflicts on the Jews he inflicts on Christ, who is 'bone of their bone and flesh of their flesh.'"

As evangelist Billy Graham puts it, Christians did not displace Jews, but are grafted on to the Jewish people.

In Jesus' career, he obviously had critics among his fellow rabbis. He argued forcefully with them, as they did among themselves, over theological issues current at the time. But his basic conflict was not with other Jewish teachers, but with the occupation regime — the wealthy Sadducean officialdom appointed by the Roman military governor, Pontius Pilate.

Other rabbis of the day also castigated the collaborating Sadducean administration, which the Jewish populace scorned, as related by the Jewish historian who lives in that period, Flavius Josephus.

In contrast to the powerful, pragmatic Sadducees, who denied God's concern with human affairs and whose conversation was "boorish and rude," Josephus says, the teaching rabbis were popularly respected, friendly, concerned with human need and stood for "the exercise of concord and regard for the public." They were called Pharisees.

The name has taken on harshly pejorative overtones implying sham and hypocrisy, even in dictionary definitions. But deepening Scriptural and historical studies have found the Pharisees to be the enlightened preservers of Judaism's vitality through that oppressive, clashing era.

"The modern Jew is the heir of the Pharisees," says Jewish scholar Jakob J. Petuchowski. They were the most learned, devout Jewish group of the time and, intellectually, colleagues of Jesus. He had personal friends among them and frequently visited in their homes.

He "shared the viewpoints of the virtuous Pharisees" in much of his outlook, writes Catholic scholar Thomas Suriano. "He, like them, was working for the continual purification of Judaism. He, like them, respected the oral traditions surrounding the Torah. He, like them, believed in immortality and resurrection, which the Sadducean priests rejected bitterly."

When signs of danger first began gathering over Jesus, concerned Pharisees urged protective steps. "Get away from here, for Herod wants to kill you," they advised in Luke 13:31. Herod Antipas, Rome's puppet king, then ruled Galilee, the rustic northern portion of Israel and Jesus' home territory, while Pilate's regime ruled directly in Judea to the south.

In both areas, Jesus associated intimately with the Pharisees, often dined with them, conferred with their leading scholars. He also argued strenuously with them, traded stinging swipes with them and denounced their stress on outward observances.

But they also were his most powerful allies and defenders. When one of Jerusalem's prominent and scholarly Pharisees, Nicodemus, daringly sought to stave off official plotting against Jesus, as noted in John 7:50-52, the Sadducean magistrates subject to Rome retorted accusingly:

"Are you, too, from Galilee?"

However, just as keen debates over Scriptural interpretation have marked every age, Jesus plainly disagreed with the Pharisees on some points, but in each specific case mentioned the issue involved only outward ritual forms, not basic concepts.

The differences cited came on occasions when he disregarded traditional disciplines for fasting, for observing the Sabbath by healing on that day or letting his apostles pick corn to eat, and when he skipped prescribed washings before meals. Although the same issues were being argued among other rabbis, as shown by Jewish commentaries, the Talmud, some disputed with Jesus about it.

When one of them with whom Jesus was dining raised the washing issue, as noted in Luke 11:38-39, Jesus fired back, "Now you Pharisees cleanse the outside of the cup and dish, but inside you are full of extortion and wickedness. You fools!"

Strong language, and the record crackles with it, as in Matthew 23:23-27: "Woe to you scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! . . . You blind guides, straining out a gnat and swallowing a camel! . . . You are like whitewashed tombs, which outwardly appear beautiful, but within they are full of dead men's bones."

Slashing, vivid, blunt. But Jesus also had raking words at times for his own apostles, upbraiding them for obtuseness, fear and faithlessness. He once censured his chief apostle, Peter, in terms about as strong as imaginable, in Matthew 16:23:

"Get behind me, Satan! You are a hindrance to me; for you are not on the side of God but of men."

Indeed, Jesus leveled some sweeping indictments at the society around him, its injustices and phoniness, just as uncompromising ministers have done through history, both Christians and Jewish. But his reproofs were thoroughly in keeping with the ways of Jewish prophets.

They could lay on quite thunderously, and regularly did so, as in Isaiah 1: "Ah, sinful nation, a people laden with iniquity, offspring of evildoers, sons who deal corruptly . . . How the faithful city has become a harlot."

But they did so in keen dedication to Israel's good, steadily offering God's assurance of an unending love and an ultimately shining destiny. "For Israel is saved with an everlasting salvation," says Isaiah 45:17, "to all eternity."

In regard to the sizzling admonitions, both by the prophets and Jesus, it is one thing for them to speak to their own people that way, in genuine concern, and quite another for non-Jews to twist their caring into demeaning of Jews.

While the common people were drawn massively to Jesus, his intellectual sparring partners were the high-minded, scrupulous Pharisees. They were impressed, some begrudgingly:

"Look, the world has gone after him," they say in John 12:19.

Besides tilting with them about formalism, he also upset them by mingling with the wanton, the religiously slack, the Roman-hired tax collectors, the prostitutes, including one that showed up to anoint his feet, as noted in Luke 7, shocking his Pharisee host.

"Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick," Jesus told the Pharisees, explaining his approach in Matthew 9:12.

The Pharisees, already of meticulously reverent habits, avoided fraternizing with the irreligious riff-raff in their striving for purity, but Jesus consorted with all types. It vexed the Pharisees for a fellow rabbi, with whom they associated closely, to do that.

Similarly, however, Jesus' non-conformity also annoyed some of his own closest allies, including disciples of John the Baptist who had baptized Jesus. They demanded in Matthew 9:14: "Why do we and the Pharisees fast, but your disciples do not fast?" It was a ritual difference within an unrelated circle.

While some Pharisees at times spoke cuttingly of him, as he did of them, their words usually were mild compared with a remark by his own family in Mark 3:21: "He is out of his mind." But they still loved one another.

Individual Pharisees naturally tried to confound him, as in the Matthew 22 episode about paying taxes to Caesar, but he also baited them with unanswerable conundrums, as in Matthew 21:25. It was a dual of wits, among fraternal competitors.

But on basic matters, such as believing in God's active concern in human affairs and in a future afterlife, both Jesus and the conscientious Pharisees stood together against the rich, power-maneuvering Sadducee party, which denied both concepts and which controlled the priesthood under sanction of Pontius Pilate.

The Pharisees, idealistic and democratic teachers who descended from the poetic, charismatic Hassidim of two centuries before, were called "habherim" — neighbors.

Like any other group, they had their pockets of pettiness. In fact, there were seven types of Pharisees, ranging from the "fearing" and "reckoning" Pharisees, to the "love" Pharisees, who were closest to Jesus.

His regard for them is clearly shown by his frequent sharing of their hospitality. That they seriously respected him is explicitly brought out in several Scriptural passages. "You are right, Teacher," they say on various occasions. "Teacher, you have spoken well."

Nicodemus, a leading Pharisee of Jerusalem, had a long, private session with him, and indicated broadly how the Pharisees felt in John 2:2: "Rabbi, we know that you are a teacher come from God; for no one can do these signs that you do, unless God is with him."

While the Sadducees worked with Pilate in getting rid of Jesus, Bible scholar Geza Vermes says there is no evidence of any active, organized part in it by the Pharisees, only indications of their distress.

Yet, before the generation ended, both Pilate and the Sadducees had vanished into history, while the sway of Jesus continued, as did that of the Pharisees, whose devotion, intellectual vigor and synagogue leadership became the heritage of modern Judaism.

Urge Flexible Tax Slash

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Any tax reduction aimed at spurring the lagging economy must have an escape clause if the gains are not to be lost to renewed inflation, a Cleveland bank economist warns.

Fiscal policy this winter should have provided a quick, fiscal stimulus which would not have been inflationary in the long run, Joel McBride of Cleveland Trust Co. says in the March Issue of the bank's Business Bulletin.

But it didn't, he adds. "The only fiscal action that can meet those criteria is a tax reduction that can be rescinded in 1976 if recovery is under way and inflation is again becoming a problem," he says.

Interest rates have declined, but restoration of liquidity has been slow, McBride says, adding that housing and energy problems dim recovery prospects.

A federal deficit of $60 billion to $80 billion would cripple the capital market after recovery begins and must be avoided, if necessary, by restoring taxes, he says.

Fee Schedules Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Goldfarb wanted to buy a $54,000 house in the suburbs, they asked 20 different lawyers what it would cost to search the property's title.

All 20 said it would cost $522.50.

As a result, the Supreme Court is being asked today by the Goldfarbs and the government to rule that minimum fee schedules for lawyers are illegal price fixing under the anti-trust laws.

Opposing the request are the American Bar Association, several local and state bar groups and the American Dental Association, which says it could jeopardize ethical standards for professionals.

The court scheduled arguments for this afternoon and is expected to decide the case before its current term ends, probably in June.

It could avoid the issue altogether, at least for the present. The Fairfax County, Va., Bar Association, a defendant in the Goldfarbs' suit, has since abandoned its minimum fee schedule and has asked the court to declare that there no longer is a live controversy.

Even should the court accept this argument, it probably would have to rule on the question eventually. Minimum fees set by the Oregon State Bar were struck down by a federal judge in Portland, Ore., recently in a case brought by the Justice Department.

The government is not directly involved in the Goldfarbs' suit but has filed a brief supporting their opposition to the fee schedules.

Government attorneys argue: "Though cast in the form of an 'ethical' standard of the legal profession, such schedules involve the most commercial aspect of law practice, are intended primarily to increase lawyers' incomes, and inevitably result in higher prices to consumers and non-use of legal services when they are needed."

Broad Support Given Jesus By Fellow Jews

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third article in a five-part Easter series about the Jewishness of Jesus, dealing with the response of fellow Jews to him in his day.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Both admiration and controversy swirled about Jesus. Thousands of fellow Jews acclaimed his ways and teachings, and the support built to an emotional crescendo on that final entry into Jerusalem.

"Hosannah to the son of David!" Welcomers packed the roadside, tossing garments and palm branches in his path. "Hosannah! Blessed be he who comes in the name of the Lord, even the king of Israel!"

The fervent reaction had trailed him throughout his ministry. The ordinary Jewish citizenry flocked to him, both in rural Galilee and cosmopolitan Judea, fascinated by his insights, his flashing directness, his healing touch.

"The people pressed about him to hear the word of God," Luke 5:1 notes. Similar evidence runs throughout the record. "His fame spread" (Matthew 4:24); waiting assemblies "ran up to him and greeted him" (Mark 9:14); the "crowds marveled" (Matthew 9:33); multitudes "thronged about him" (Mark 5:25); "Large crowds followed him" (Matthew 19:1); "The great throng heard him gladly" (Mark 12:37).

Once, on the seashore, he had to speak from a rocking boat because of the crush (Mark 4:1); listeners packed a synagogue to overflowing, "even about the door" (Mark 2:1); his relatives "could not reach him for the crowd" (Luke 8:19); one group piled into a fleet of boats, hunting him (John 6:24).

So great was the milling about him he could hardly find a chance to eat (Mark 3:20); once, a multitude sought to "take him by force and make him king," but he slipped away (John 6:15).

"Never was anything like this seen in Israel," went a common reaction, noted in Matthew 9:33. "Many believed in him," says John 7:13. Israel's general populace appreciated this heart-stirring rabbi from Nazareth.

Yet, despite this widespread Jewish esteem for him in his lifetime, and the fact that all his chosen assistants were Jew, the church that evolved in his name, that stemmed from Judaism, that used a Bible produced by Jews, including the New Testament, except for Luke and Acts, has flickered over the years with anti-Jewishness.

It is an odd circumstance, which many church bodies now are reassessing and trying to rectify.

The church is "rooted in the life of the people of Israel," says a 1973 analysis drawn up by a group of leading theologians for the National Council of Churches. "Whatever the anti-Semite inflicts on the Jews he inflicts on Christ, who is 'bone of their bone and flesh of their flesh.'"

As evangelist Billy Graham puts it, Christians did not displace Jews, but are grafted on to the Jewish people.

In Jesus' career, he obviously had critics among his fellow rabbis. He argued forcefully with them, as they did among themselves, over theological issues current at the time. But his basic conflict was not with other Jewish teachers, but with the occupation regime — the wealthy Sadducean officialdom appointed by the Roman military governor, Pontius Pilate.

Other rabbis of the day also castigated the collaborating Sadducean administration, which the Jewish populace scorned, as related by the Jewish historian who lives in that period, Flavius Josephus.

County Health Nurses Explain Their Service To Registered Nurses

Pickaway County Registered Nurses Assn., met recently at Pickaway Manor. Mrs. Loretta Berrigan introduced the Pickaway County Health Department nurses, Mrs. Carlene Francis and Mrs. Linda Davis. They told the many clinics and services provided from the department.

Included are: The Well-Child Clinic, Prenatal Clinic, Chest Clinic, Pediatric Otolological Diagnostic Clinic and Immunization Clinic.

The school nursing programs involve the Health Department by reviewing immunization records on all county school children from kindergarten to second grade. The basic three DPT shots plus two boosters, four polio (Sabin Tri Valent) and Rubella and Rubeola are required for school entrance. Forms are sent home with the students to remind the family of the needed immunizations. If they have a family physician, they are asked to contact him. In instances where there is no family physician a dated parental consent is requested for permission to administer them by the County Health Nurse. A follow-up program is done to verify each family contact has been completed.

A vision screening program is conducted in grades 1-6 in all county schools with the help of volunteer mothers. Of the referrals from the screening this year approximately 90 per cent needed glasses.

All children who work in the school cafeterias were skin tested at the beginning of the year. Any child found with a positive tuberculosis was X-rayed, seen or evaluated by Dr. George Kress from Columbus and a course of treatment was instituted.

All residents who are released from the hospital through the Continuity of Patient Care Service have initial visits made on this referral basis and are followed as their situation or condition warrants.

Each child residing in Pickaway County listed with the Bureau of Crippled Children are seen at least once a year or as their case deems important. Any patient seen through one of the clinics who misses any appointment or needs medical evaluation or advisement is visited.

In the near future, the Health Department plans to establish a VD Clinic operating through the Ohio Department of Health.

State May Aid Handicapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—As many as one of every 10 Ohioans may be handicapped to an extent that interferes with their ability to earn a living, Social Security statistics report.

They could be beneficiaries of a major bill now pending in the 111th General Assembly.

The sweeping measure adds "the handicapped" to race, color, religion, national origin and ancestry as things which can not legally be used as a basis for discrimination in Ohio.

But the bill by Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, goes further, extending special parking privileges, giving families affected by handicaps unusual tax considerations, requiring state and local governments to plan and construct buildings accessible to the handicapped and providing free auto license plates to the more severely handicapped.

Meshel, who offered his bill in the Senate early this month and now is asking for hearings, cited Social Security figures showing one in 10 Americans is handicapped enough that it interferes with his ability to earn a living.

"The way in which a society responds to the needs of the handicapped is a good measure of civilization itself," said Meshel, 50.

Ammo Dangerous

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police Specialist Ralph Gramke, a ballistics expert assigned to the Hamilton County Coroner's office, was treated at a hospital after he dropped a bag of .45-caliber bullets Tuesday and one of them went off. A casing fragment hit him in the foot, police said.

year-old Youngstown State University instructor.

"We are more aware than ever before of the interdependence of human beings. We understand that whatever diminishes anyone diminishes everyone."

Meshe's bill lists organizations prohibited from discrimination. They include those involved in providing housing, labor unions, employers, public accommodations, lending institutions and others.

Under the bill an employer would not be required to train or employ a handicapped person "under circumstances that would significantly increase the occupational hazards affecting the handicapped person or other employees."

The measure would permit the handicapped to park their vehicles two hours beyond normal limits except where prohibited by local ordinance.

State income taxpayers would be entitled to claim an additional $500 annual deduction for each dependent missing a limb, or each dependent blind, crippled or deaf.

Persons who have lost a limb or who are deaf, blind or crippled would be entitled to free auto license plates similar in design to existing disabled veterans' licenses.

State May Aid Handicapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—As many as one of every 10 Ohioans may be handicapped to an extent that interferes with their ability to earn a living, Social Security statistics report.

They could be beneficiaries of a major bill now pending in the 111th General Assembly.

The sweeping measure adds "the handicapped" to race, color, religion, national origin and ancestry as things which can not legally be used as a basis for discrimination in Ohio.

But the bill by Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, goes further, extending special parking privileges, giving families affected by handicaps unusual tax considerations, requiring state and local governments to plan and construct buildings accessible to the handicapped and providing free auto license plates to the more severely handicapped.

Meshel, who offered his bill in the Senate early this month and now is asking for hearings, cited Social Security figures showing one in 10 Americans is handicapped enough that it interferes with his ability to earn a living.

"The way in which a society responds to the needs of the handicapped is a good measure of civilization itself," said Meshel, 50-

Ammo Dangerous

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police Specialist Ralph Gramke, a ballistics expert assigned to the Hamilton County Coroner's office, was treated at a hospital after he dropped a bag of .45-caliber bullets Tuesday and one of them went off. A casing fragment hit him in the foot, police said.

year-old Youngstown State University instructor.

"We are more aware than ever before of the interdependence of human beings. We understand that whatever diminishes anyone diminishes everyone."

Meshel's bill lists organizations prohibited from discrimination. They include those involved in providing housing, labor unions, employers, public accommodations, lending institutions and others.

Under the bill an employer would not be required to train or employ a handicapped person "under circumstances that would significantly increase the occupational hazards affecting the handicapped person or other employees."

The measure would permit the handicapped to park their vehicles two hours beyond normal limits except where prohibited by local ordinance.

State income taxpayers would be entitled to claim an additional $500 annual deduction for each dependent missing a limb, or each dependent blind, crippled or deaf.

Persons who have lost a limb or who are deaf, blind or crippled would be entitled to free auto license plates similar in design to existing disabled veterans' licenses.

Dear Abby:

Better To Hit Niece?

DEAR ABBY: With reference to the reason an aunt cannot marry her nephew, but an uncle can marry his niece: It originated in Jewish law.

The principle of consanguinity (close blood relationships) forbids sexual relationships between very near kin. An aunt would be in close blood with one's father, therefore a sex relationship would be forbidden according to this logic.

On the other hand, a niece is a step down in the blood lines, and therefore not as close-therfore sex with her would be permitted. This is why a man may not marry his aunt, but he may marry his niece!

Incidentally, while Judaism is a patriarchal society, all blood lines go through the mother. For example, in an intermarriage, the religion of the offspring is determined by the religion of the mother. Therefore, in all blood line relationships, the closeness of the woman determines the decisions.

When I was at the Seminary we used to remember the law through the following joke. It is well-known that often couples quarrel and a man may be moved to strike his wife. If he hit his niece, it is not so bad. But, how would it look if he hit his aunt?

RABBI BERNARD S. RASKUS
DEAR RABBI: Thank you for the explanation. Frankly, I don't think it would "look" any better for a man to hit his niece than it would to his aunt. And with Women's Lib gaining muscle a man who hits any female had better look out for himself.

DEAR ABBY: I have waited for too long to write this letter, but I am finally going to get this off my chest. I am sick of listening to people complain about plumber's rates. No other professional earns his money working in such damp, unsanitary and uncomfortable conditions. A plumber has no set hours. He works from early morning until late at night, and when he finally does go home, his clothes are black, his boots are soaking wet, and he smells like a sewer.

A plumber is called upon to unstop stopped up toilets, dirty, greasy sinks, and he has to crawl under houses where snakes, spiders and rodents lurk.

Why does everyone think that a plumber is overpaid?

PLUMBER'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: After reading your letter, I'm going to give my plumber a bonus next time I see him.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about the woman who prepared so well for her husband's death that she ended up with a lover while her husband continued to live, reminded me of something that happened over 50 years ago. I knew the people involved.

A woman we knew well became very sick. The doctor said she couldn't possibly live, so her husband gave away all her clothes.

Well, she recovered, bought all new clothes and outlived her husband by 20 years.

TRUE STORY
DEAR STORY: There's a common moral in both those stories: "If you don't want it to rain—always carry an umbrella."

DEAR ABBY: What's a nice girl like you doing writing a column when you can belt out a song like you did on Dinah Shore's program?

JUDY S. IN BEVERLY HILLS
DEAR JUDY: Just lucky I guess. Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

'Green Hornets' Cite 193 Drivers

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati's "Green Hornets," a team of special police searching for cars and trucks violating clean air standards, cited 193 motorists in their first month of operation.

The force was created after the federal government requiring all cars in Hamilton county to undergo auto exhaust emission tests.

The inspectors, wearing green uniforms and driving green cruisers, go after trucks, cars and buses which spew out inordinate amounts of smoke.

Reserve Wing Revises Low Level Route

The 302nd "Buckeye" Tactical Airlift Wing at Rickenbacker AFB, has revised its low level flight training route over central Ohio to maximize flight crew training while reducing actual flying time to reduce fuel consumption.

The new low level route will take the Buckeye Wing's C-123 "Provider" transport aircraft through Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Vinton, Pike, Jackson, Athens, Perry, Muskingham, Licking and Fairfield counties.

The routes are flown in accordance with Federal Aviation and U.S. Air Force regulations and planned to cause the least possible inconvenience to Ohio citizens.

During the day 302nd aircraft will fly the route no lower than 500 feet from the ground. At night they will fly no lower than 1000 feet.

The purpose of the low level flying is to give Ohio reservists training in low level, ground reference navigation and low level formation flying needed to slip under radar detection.

Communities located along the low level route include Groveport, Pickerington, Millersport, Laurelville, Leisville, Circleville, and Lockbourne. The route begins and terminates at Rickenbacker AFB.

Residents along the route who have questions about low flying propeller-driven aircraft believed to be from Rickenbacker should contact the 302nd Information Office at 492-3981.

Hamilton County Challenge Ends

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton County's vote system controversy has been ended after a challenger withdrew his appeal protesting the purchase of the Votomatic System for $1.1 million.

Henry S. Hilberg, of Cincinnati, who sells a rival Datavote system, dropped his appeal Tuesday to the 1st Ohio District Court of Appeals.

Hilberg earlier lost a suit in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court challenging the competitive bidding specifications prepared by the Hamilton County Board of Elections.

Hilberg charged the specifications eliminated all competitors but Votomatic.

Reclamation Bill OKd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House has approved a measure earmarking 75 per cent of the state severance tax for reclamation of abandoned mine land.

The House passed the measure 83-9 Tuesday and sent it to the Senate.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Arthur R. Bowers, D-98 Steubenville, said proceeds from the tax are supposed to go to environmental projects now.

"But we haven't done it," he said. "The money has gone into the general fund, and no one was able to tell the committee (which considered the bill), or tell anyone who asked, where the money went."

The bill would establish a new Unreclaimed Lands Fund to hold the reclamation money. The other 25 per cent of the tax receipts would go to an existing fund for plugging abandoned oil and gas wells.

Laurelville Community can be proud of four area high school students who attend Logan Elm School. They were among the 31 students who were tapped during the ceremonies held by the National Honor Society at Logan Elm on March 3.

They are Terri Ebert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ebert of Laurelville; Lisa DeLong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald DeLong; Greg Kneese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kneese; Steve Strous, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Strous all of Route 1, Laurelville; and Joe Disbennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Disbennett of Route 2, Laurelville.

All parents of the honored students were invited guests at the ceremonies and all the parents mentioned above were able to attend.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Raymond Sowers and her mother, Mrs. Madalyn Claypool were hostess to the Pleasant Valley Home Extension Club, at their home on Happy Hollow Road. In the absence of the president, vice president Mrs. Dick Karr presided.

The meeting opened with the pledge to the flag. Devotions were read by Mrs. Marion Grate, who also read a poem "One Solitary Life."

The April meeting, which will be the last meeting until September will be at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Haynes.

Contest winners were Mrs. Grate, Mrs. Rudolph Ebert, Mrs. Ed McKee. Mrs. Pritchard won the door prize. Refreshments were served to 12 members.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Strous entertained on Sunday evening in honor of their daughter Kathy's eighth birthday. Joining in the celebration were her grandparents, Mrs. Zola Flanigan and Mr. and Mrs. Clendell Reid; her brothers, Gary, Steve and Tracy; and her sister-in-law, Cherry Strous.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ebert of near South Bloomingville are parents of a daughter, Cheryl, born March 19 in Ross Medical Center. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Ebert. The new arrival has two sisters, Debbie and Brenda.

LAMB AND ASPARAGUS ARE SPRING FOODS

Lamb and asparagus are two foods associated with spring. Fresh asparagus and lamb loin chops are featured this week in our supermarket.

Fresh asparagus is a good source of vitamins A and C, thiamine and niacin. To prepare asparagus for cooking, hold the base of the stalk firmly and gently bend the stalk. It will break at the spot where the stalk becomes tough. Discard the tough part. Wash the spears thoroughly under running water using a brush to remove any scales.

To cook whole stalks of asparagus, tie five or six stalks together in bundles and stand upright in the bottom part of a double broiler or in a coffee pot in two or three inches of boiling salted water. Cover with the inverted top part of the double boiler or the lid to the coffee pot.

Cook 15 to 20 minutes or until just tender. Overcooking will destroy the delicate flavor and many of the nutrients.

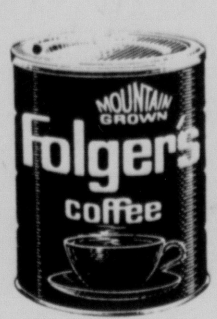

Broiled lamb chops and hot buttered asparagus are a tasty nutritional menu combination. Broil lamb chops four to six minutes on each side. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and garlic salt. Two lamb chops are usually considered a serving. One pound of asparagus will serve two or three people.

Circleville Holds Winter Sports Banquet

Circleville High School held its annual winter sports banquet Tuesday night at the high school with Most Valuable Player Awards going to Anne Frericks, girl's basketball, Perry Hoskins, boy's basketball and John Payne, wrestling.

But it was Perry Hoskins' night as the personable young man picked up just about everything that wasn't nailed down. In addition to the MVP Award he received The Herald's Bob Bowsher trophy and plaque as the outstanding senior basketball player in Pickaway County, the Coca Cola plaque as player of the year, the South Central Ohio League trophy as co-captain of the all-league team and a trophy as leader in assists for the Tigers during the 1974-75 season. He made so many trips from his seat to the podium that he should have been issued a passport.

Coach John Lawhorn, Ohio AA Coach of the Year, received a standing ovation as he introduced his basketball squad which had an 18-0 record on the season, captured the sectional and district titles and finished play with a mark of 22-1.

Other team awards went to: Mike McCoy, best free throw percentage; George Moore, leading rebounder; Brad Spangler, most improved player; and Biff Bumgarner, best defensive player.

Dave Bevan presented the All-League Awards to Hoskins and Harold Reed, co-captains of the star team, George Moore, all first team selections and Biff Bumgarner who was named to the second team of the SCOL.

The Associated Press trophy naming the Tigers the No. 1 team in its poll was presented to the school by P. J. Ryal.

Team members voted Mike McCoy and George Moore as co-captains of the 1975-76 Tiger squad. Coach

Lawhorn introduced his team statisticians who did a fine job this year.

Coach Brent Bell introduced his SCOL championship wrestling team and related the trials and tribulations that had beset his squad this year. Assistant coach Dale Harger aided Bell in the presentations.

Team members gaining berths on the All-SCOL team were: Mike Hamilton, Andy Smith, Tony Dray, Brett Christy, Jim Cordle, John Payne and Scott Bowman.

Other wrestling awards went to: Brett Christy, most take downs; Bruce Brudzinski, most pins; and Tony Dray, most improved wrestler.

John Payne and Brett Christy were selected co-captain of the 1975-76 squad.

Joyce O'Brien handled the introduction of the varsity and reserve cheerleaders for Carol Parker who was unable to attend the banquet.

Miss O'Brien then introduced, praised and presented the awards to her girl's basketball team. In addition to Miss Frericks' MVP Award, Sue Radcliff received the award as the most improved player.

Dennis Stewart introduced his reserve basketball team which compiled an 11-7 record on the season.

Reserve Awards went to: Brian Fath, best free throw percentage; Tom Taylor, most improved; and Fran Merrill, best defensive player.

William Camp acted as Master of Ceremonies with Bill McKinney giving the invocation and benediction.

Women Bowlers To Hold Pro-Am

Professional women's bowling will return to Akron for the third consecutive year when an event in the $50,000 range is held at Colonial Village Lanes, May 23-28, 1975.

A 1,008-player junior pro-am and a 1,008-player adult pro-am will precede the actual pro-portion of the week-long activities.

Handicap will be figured on the basis of 80 per cent of 200. Bowlers are to use the highest average of 1973-74 or 1974-75. Entry blanks are available at all area bowling establishments and deadline for entering is May 19.

Women and men amateur bowlers wishing to bowl with the women professionals have three ways of acquiring a berth in the Adult Pro-Am program: purchase the entry direct, either from your local bowling center or Colonial Village Lanes; win one in local roll-offs, which are being conducted in most Ohio bowling centers; or bowlers may compete among themselves during regular league play.

MVP'S—Named as Most Valuable Players at the Circleville High School winter sports banquet Tuesday night were: from the left,

John Payne, wrestling; Anne Frericks, girl's basketball team; and Perry Hoskins, boy's basketball team.

Tribe Tops San Diego In 3-2 Tilt

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Cleveland Indians' Manager Frank Robinson wore a smile Tuesday after the Tribe's 3-2 Cactus League victory over the San Diego Padres.

I especially liked our pitching and base running," Robinson said. "The base running got us all three runs."

Winning Pitcher Fritz Peterson yielded only three hits and one unearned run in six innings.

The Tribe got all its runs off loser Dan Spillner in the third.

Frank Duffy led off with the first of two singles, and shortly afterward he and John Lowenstein collaborated on a hit and run.

Then Oscar Gamble socked a single to right to score one run, while Lowenstein took third on a wild pickoff attempt by Spillner.

Finally, Charlie Spikes slashed a two-out single for two more runs.

The Padres got one in the fifth and scared the Indians with another in the ninth, but the effort fell short.

The victory boosted the Tribe's springtime record to 3-6, while the loss dropped San Diego to 5-6. The Padres get a rematch here today.

The Indians sent pitchers Bob Grossman and Larry Andersen to the minors Tuesday, cutting the squad to 34 players plus three minor league invitees.

Homers Like Allen Rumors

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Home runs are flying out of spring baseball camps even faster than rumors about Dick Allen. And that's fast.

The controversial slugger emerged Tuesday at a racetrack in Pennsylvania and announced: "I'm available and I want to play baseball."

Traded in the off-season from the Chicago White Sox to the Atlanta Braves, Allen, last season's American League home run king, said he still considers himself the property of the White Sox. In a statement, Braves vice president Eddie Robinson disagreed with Allen and said "there is no question that his contract belongs to the Braves."

While Allen was explaining for the first time his "retirement" before the season ended last year, the barrage of home runs in exhibition games this spring continued.

Dave Kingman's eighth round tripper in 15 games, this one with two mates aboard, and Gene Clines' two-run blast lifted the New York Mets to an 8-0 blanking of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Kingman also added two singles, driving in another run, in three trips to the plate and lifted his spring average to .361.

Outfielder George Foster's homer led the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-3 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles. Baltimore's Don Baylor continued his hot hitting, blasting his sixth home run in his last six games.

Montreal rookie Gary Carter's ninth-inning home run broke a 1-1 tie and the Expos went on to a 3-1 victory over the Texas Rangers. The homer was Carter's third in four games against Texas this spring. The Rangers' lone run came when Cesar Tovar stole home.

Trail Blazers Whip Atlanta; Win 105-89

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

And the days dwindle down ... to a precious few ...

The National Basketball Association playoffs are on everyone's minds these days. Everyone in the NBA anyway. And teams who have not yet secured their positions in the post-season matchups are scrambling.

Portland and Milwaukee are two of the scramblers but only one of them is heading in the right direction.

"That was a good one to win," said Portland Coach Lenny Wilkins after his Trail Blazers beat Atlanta Tuesday night 105-89. "It keeps us alive."

"We still have a chance but we're not getting the performance we should," said Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello after his Bucks dropped a 92-87 decision to Phoenix. "Mistakes can kill you."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston held off Cleveland 89-84, Chicago trimmed Houston 112-94, Buffalo whipped Philadelphia 118-103, New Orleans edged Kansas City-Omaha 112-110 and Golden State cruised past Los Angeles 139-122.

Sidney Wicks scored 24 points and Geoff Petrie had 20 as the revived Blazers kept their hopes of a playoff berth alive.

The Blazers' victory lifted them within 1½ games of second-place Seattle in the Pacific Division and also kept them alive in the chase for the Western Conference wild card playoff spot.

Milwaukee, on the other hand, is making its stretch run backwards. The Bucks, who lost the NBA title by one game to Boston last season, are on the ropes. They lost their fifth straight.

Charlie Scott returned to action after a four-game absence and netted 22 points for Phoenix and ex-Buck Curtis Perry added 17. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 34 points for the Bucks but had little help.

Reeds Pence Winner Of Lebanon Feature

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Reeds Pence took the $1,100 featured pace mile in the eighth race at Lebanon Tuesday night by 1½ lengths in 2:08 and paid $12.20, $8.60 and $5.40.

Daddy's Baby placed, paying $9.40 and $5.40, and Ashlawn, showed for $7.80.

The 1-3 combination of Red Carey and Sasebo Gene was worth $223 in the daily double.

Attendance was 1,283 and betting totaled $96,969.

homer for Kansas City, but the Royals needed a ninthinning rally to edge the Boston Red Sox 5-4.

The Chicago Cubs hit three home runs, including two by Rick Monday, but suffered their fifth successive spring defeat, losing to the California Angels 8-5.

Sixto Lezcano drove in four runs—two on an inside-the-park home run—as the Milwaukee Brewers toppled the San Francisco Giants 9-5. Don Money added a two-run homer in Milwaukee's five-run first inning.

A three-run, first-inning blast by Jose Cruz paced the Houston Astros to an easy 11-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves. Mike Easler also had a home run for the Astros.

Tom Paciorek's home run capped a 13-hit Los Angeles attack as the Dodgers romped to a 7-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers were also helped by Cardinal catcher Ted Simmons' two-run throwing error.

Rudy May pitched the first six innings, scattering three Chicago White Sox hits, and leaving with a 1-0 lead. But the Sox rebounded against Sparky Lyle, scoring four unearned runs in a five-run seventh to beat the New York Yanks 5-1.

For Chicago, Bart Johnson surrendered only two singles in five scoreless innings.

Three Cleveland pitchers yielded only five hits as the Indians won their second game in a row, defeating the San Diego Padres 3-2.

The Philadelphia Phillies-Detroit Tigers game at Lakeland, Fla., was canceled because of rain.

Strong Field Set For Heritage

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Johnny Miller and Gary Player give the $200,000 Heritage Classic one of the strongest lineups ever assembled for a regular pro golf tour event.

But Hale Irwin is about due to win. Even with Nicklaus, Miller, Trevino, Player and Palmer heading the elite, invitational field of 102, Irwin has to figure to be the man to beat in the event.

Irwin, current U.S. Open champion, and Miller have alternated as champions of this event for the last four years. Irwin won in 1971 and 1973. Miller won in 1972 and 1974. Now, in an odd-number year, Irwin is up.

But he faces—in the 72-hole test that begins Thursday—one of the most spectacular gathering of world stars ever assembled outside one of the game's Big Four tournaments.

Player, the little South African who owns both the 1974 Masters and British Open titles, is making his first American start of the season at this millionaire's playground off the South Carolina coast.

Nicklaus, holder of a record of 12 major professional titles, is making his first appearance since his victory in the Doral Open. He helped design the 6,655-yard, par-71 Harbour Town Golf Links, one of the most outstanding courses in the country, but never has won here.

CHS Boosters Meet

The Circleville Athletic Booster Club will meet 8 p.m. tonight in the high school cafeteria.

SPORTS

The Circleville Herald, Wednesday March 26, 1975 23

David Thompson Cager Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — David Thompson of North Carolina State was named The Associated Press college basketball Player of the Year today for the second straight season.

The 6-foot-4 forward with incredible jumping ability won in a landslide, collecting 188 votes from the nation's sports writers and broadcasters to outdistance Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley, who had 51.

In winning the award, Thompson becomes the second player to win it back-to-back in the past four years. UCLA's Bill Walton was The AP's Player of the Year in 1972 and 1973.

Senior forward David Meyers of UCLA finished third with 21 votes. Kevin Grevey, Kentucky's standout forward, was the only other player with more than four votes. He had 10.

Thompson, called by pro scouts "the most devastating player in the college game today," was one of the nation's highest scorers—but his contribution soared beyond his 29.9 average.

He was a darling of the fans—and a pest to his opponents—with a patented "Alley Oop" shot, leaping high above the basket rim to take a lob pass for an easy two points.

His ability to spring for rebounds is a record at North Carolina State—an amazing 42-inch vertical leap from a standing position.

The 11th son of a poor North Carolina family, Thompson turned down a reported $2 million to join the pros last year after his junior year. He's sure to be either the first or second pick in this year's draft.

Thompson became the leading all-time scorer in the Atlantic Coast Conference, with a total 2,309 points, eclipsing Buzz Wilkinson's longtime record at Virginia. At the end of this season, North Carolina State retired Thompson's uniform, the first time that's been done in the school's history.

Islanders, Canadiens In 3-3 Tie

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Dave Fortier was tired of sitting down. He was trying to get the puck to do the same.

Fortunately for the New York Islanders, both Dave and the puck were standing up in the fading minutes of Tuesday night's game against Montreal.

Fortier was taking one of his infrequent turns on the ice when Denis Potvin shoveled a cross-ice pass to Dave at the left point. "I tried to get the puck to sit down," Fortier said. "It was rolling on me, on its side."

But the puck stayed on its edge and, with a Montreal defender coming toward him and just 65 seconds to play, Fortier took the shot anyway.

"It went just high enough to sail over the shoulder of goalie Ken Dryden and caught the corner of the net, giving the Islanders a 3-3 tie. That moved them within a point of the idle New York Rangers in the National Hockey League's secondplace scramble in Division 1.

In the other NHL games Tuesday night, the Philadelphia Flyers downed the Vancouver Canucks 5-3 and the Minnesota North Stars edged the Kansas City Scouts 2-1.

San Diego Mariners Top Chicago Cougars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gene Peacosh believes it is better to give ... and give ... and give ... than it is to give up.

The San Diego right wing, frustrated after he gave away a cheap goal to Chicago, gave the Cougars fits from then on Tuesday night, scoring three straight goals in the second period to lead the Mariners to a 6-4 World Hockey Association victory. The win all but eliminated Chicago from the playoffs and kept San Diego's post-season hopes alive.

In other WHA action, New England edged Edmonton 5-4, Minnesota trimmed Baltimore 5-4, Winnipeg nosed out Indianapolis 4-3 and Toronto whipped Vancouver 8-4.

Homers Like Allen Rumors

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Home runs are flying out of spring baseball camps even faster than rumors about Dick Allen. And that's fast.

The controversial slugger emerged Tuesday at a racetrack in Pennsylvania and announced: "I'm available and I want to play baseball."

Traded in the off-season from the Chicago White Sox to the Atlanta Braves, Allen, last season's American League home run king, said he still considers himself the property of the White Sox. In a statement, Braves vice president Eddie Robinson disagreed with Allen and said "there is no question that his contract belongs to the Braves."

While Allen was explaining for the first time his "retirement" before the season ended last year, the barrage of home runs in exhibition games this spring continued.

Dave Kingman's eighth round tripper in 15 games, this one with two mates aboard, and Gene Clines' two-run blast lifted the New York Mets to an 8-0 blanking of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Kingman also added two singles, driving in another run, in three trips to the plate and lifted his spring average to .361.

Outfielder George Foster's homer led the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-3 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles. Baltimore's Don Baylor continued his hot hitting, blasting his sixth home run in his last six games.

Montreal rookie Gary Carter's ninth-inning home run broke a 1-1 tie and the Expos went on to a 3-1 victory over the Texas Rangers. The homer was Carter's third in four games against Texas this spring. The Rangers' lone run came when Cesar Tovar stole home.

Trail Blazers Whip Atlanta; Win 105-89

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

And the days dwindle down ... to a precious few ...

The National Basketball Association playoffs are on everyone's minds these days. Everyone in the NBA anyway. And teams who have not yet secured their positions in the post-season matchups are scrambling.

Portland and Milwaukee are two of the scramblers but only one of them is heading in the right direction.

"That was a good one to win," said Portland Coach Lenny Wilkins after his Trail Blazers beat Atlanta Tuesday night 105-89. "It keeps us alive."

"We still have a chance but we're not getting the performance we should," said Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello after his Bucks dropped a 92-87 decision to Phoenix. "Mistakes can kill you."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston held off Cleveland 89-84, Chicago trimmed Houston 112-94, Buffalo whipped Philadelphia 118-103, New Orleans edged Kansas City-Omaha 112-110 and Golden State cruised past Los Angeles 139-122.

Sidney Wicks scored 24 points and Geoff Petrie had 20 as the revived Blazers kept their hopes of a playoff berth alive.

The Blazers' victory lifted them within 1½ games of second-place Seattle in the Pacific Division and also kept them alive in the chase for the Western Conference wild card playoff spot.

Milwaukee, on the other hand, is making its stretch run backwards. The Bucks, who lost the NBA title by one game to Boston last season, are on the ropes. They lost their fifth straight.

Charlie Scott returned to action after a four-game absence and netted 22 points for Phoenix and ex-Buck Curtis Perry added 17. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 34 points for the Bucks but had little help.

Reeds Pence Winner Of Lebanon Feature

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Reeds Pence took the $1,100 featured pace mile in the eighth race at Lebanon Tuesday night by 1½ lengths in 2:08 and paid $12.20, $8.60 and $5.40.

Daddys Baby placed, paying $9.40 and $5.40, and Ashlawn, showed for $7.80.

The 1-3 combination of Red Carey and Sasebo Gene was worth $223 in the daily double.

Attendance was 1,283 and betting totaled $96,969.

homer for Kansas City, but the Royals needed a ninthinning rally to edge the Boston Red Sox 5-4.

The Chicago Cubs hit three home runs, including two by Rick Monday, but suffered their fifth successive spring defeat, losing to the California Angels 8-5.

Sixto Lezcano drove in four runs—two on an inside-the-park home run—as the Milwaukee Brewers toppled the San Francisco Giants 9-5. Don Money added a two-run homer in Milwaukee's five-run first inning.

A three-run, first-inning blast by Jose Cruz paced the Houston Astros to an easy 11-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves. Mike Easler also had a home run for the Astros.

Tom Paciorek's home run capped a 13-hit Los Angeles attack as the Dodgers romped to a 7-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers were also helped by Cardinal catcher Ted Simmons' two-run throwing error.

Rudy May pitched the first six innings, scattering three Chicago White Sox hits, and leaving with a 1-0 lead. But the Sox rebounded against Sparky Lyle, scoring four unearned runs in a five-run seventh to beat the New York Yankees 5-1.

For Chicago, Bart Johnson surrendered only two singles in five scoreless innings.

Three Cleveland pitchers yielded only five hits as the Indians won their second game in a row, defeating the San Diego Padres 3-2.

The Philadelphia Phillies-Detroit Tigers game at Lakeland, Fla., was canceled because of rain.

Strong Field Set For Heritage

But Hale Irwin is about due to win. Even with Nicklaus, Miller, Trevino, Player and Palmer heading the elite, invitational field of 102, Irwin has to figure to be the man to beat in the event.

Irwin, current U.S. Open champion, and Miller have alternated as champions of this event for the last four years. Irwin won in 1971 and 1973. Miller won in 1972 and 1974. Now, in an odd-number year, Irwin is up.

But he faces—in the 72-hole test that begins Thursday—one of the most spectacular gatherings of world stars ever assembled outside one of the game's Big Four tournaments.

Player, the little South African who owns both the 1974 Masters and British Open titles, is making his first American start of the season at this millionaire's playground off the South Carolina coast.

Nicklaus, holder of a record of 12 major professional titles, is making his first appearance since his victory in the Doral Open. He helped design the 6,655-yard, par-71 Harbour Town Golf Links, one of the most outstanding courses in the country, but never has won here.

SPORTS

The Circleville Herald, Wednesday March 26, 1975 23

David Thompson Cager Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — David Thompson of North Carolina State was named The Associated Press college basketball Player of the Year today for the second straight season.

The 6-foot-4 forward with incredible jumping ability won in a landslide, collecting 188 votes from the nation's sports writers and broadcasters to outdistance Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley, who had 51.

In winning the award, Thompson becomes the second player to win it back-to-back in the past four years. UCLA's Bill Walton was The AP's Player of the Year in 1972 and 1973.

Senior forward David Meyers of UCLA finished third with 21 votes. Kevin Grevey, Kentucky's standout forward, was the only other player with more than four votes. He had 10. Thompson, called by pro scouts "the most devastating player in the college game today," was one of the nation's highest scorers—but his contribution soared beyond his 29.9 average.

He was a darling of the fans—and a pest to his opponents—with a patented "Alley Oop" shot, leaping high above the basket rim to take a lob pass for an easy two points.

His ability to spring for rebounds is a record at North Carolina State—an amazing 42inch vertical leap from a standing position.

The 11th son of a poor North Carolina family, Thompson turned down a reported $2 million to join the pros last year after his junior year. He's sure to be either the first or second pick in this year's draft.

Thompson became the leading all-time scorer in the Atlantic Coast Conference, with a total 2,309 points, eclipsing Buzz Wilkinson's longtime record at Virginia. At the end of this season, North Carolina State retired Thompson's uniform, the first time that's been done in the school's history.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: IF I COULD I WOULD ALWAYS WORK IN SILENCE AND OBSCURITY AND LET MY EFFORTS BE KNOWN BY THEIR RESULTS. -EMILY BRONTE
(© 1975 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You always enjoy a challenge, and you may meet some interesting ones now. Tackle with vigor, but don't undertake ventures you would not usually consider.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): You may have an unusual opportunity to advance your interests immediately - one which could have an important bearing on the future as well. Accept!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Ride along with propitious influences now. Acquaint yourself with new trends and take measures as occasion demands.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A new contact may give you an unusual idea for furthering your goals. Your keenness and convincing words should help you in adapting and putting it over.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Scattered efforts will confuse, lead you off course. You can win big gains if you buckle down to essentials and STAY with them.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Mixed influences. Question and investigate where there is margin for error. Do not accept suggestions blindly.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): A good day for "pulling strings." Persons of influence will be highly amenable should you need their help.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Curb tendencies toward combativeness. You can be your independent self without being arrogant or domineering - and you'll gain more.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): If you have doubts

or uncertainties about launching a certain project, it would be well to heed. Try to find the underlying reason for your hesitancy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Some unprecedented situations or unusual propositions indicated. Study well but defer taking action until early next week.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Under good Uranus influences, your imagination is heightened. Give your creative ideas the "full treatment." They should work out well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Some difficulty in communication likely. Be especially careful in what you tell another "confidentially." It could boomerang.

YOU BORN TODAY have a keenly analytical mind and a dynamic personality. You always make yourself felt - whether in family, social or professional circles - and, you must admit, you love the feeling of this power you exert. Here, you must be careful not to use sheer force to achieve the influence you seek. The attention you crave, and must have, to be happy, can be achieved through performance alone. Using your talents to the utmost and capitalizing on your tremendous energies, brilliant achievement can be yours - all that's needed to keep you in the limelight. There are many fields for you to conquer - art, music, literature, the theater, science, politics and statesmanship - but you will do far better if your goals include the betterment of mankind, rather than sheer glorification of self. Birthdate of: W. K. Roentgen, physicist, discoverer of X-ray; Gloria Swanson, film star.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) - License renewal time often is an uneasy period for a broadcaster, especially if one or more citizen groups has asked the Federal Communications Commission to deny the renewal.

But broadcasters may become even more uneasy if a federal "Agency for Consumer Advocacy" proposed in a Senate bill is allowed to intervene in the license renewal process. Broadcasters face every three years.

The measure would let the agency intervene on behalf of consumers during proceedings of various federal regulatory agencies, including the FCC.

Despite claims that it's doubtful the ACA ever would intervene in broadcast license renewal cases, the National Association of Broadcasters is trying to knock out that provision.

Spokesmen for the Senate Government Operations Committee, which this month approved the bill 11-1, emphasize that it narrowly limits ACA intervention to cases of "substantial" consumer interest in a "marketplace transaction" where buying and selling occurs.

Dick Wegman, the committee's chief counsel, says it's highly unlikely the proposed agency ever would intervene in a license renewal case because "there's no marketplace transaction involved."

"As a practical matter, ACA wouldn't get into license renewal simply because its (proposed) budget is too limited," says Jerry Murphy of Congress Watch, a group formed by consumer advocate Ralph Nader, who

Playing Card Ban Asked

PORT MORESBY, Papua New Guinea (AP) - A congress of women's associations called on the House of Assembly to revoke the law allowing playing cards to be used and sold. The women said their husbands were causing family problems by gambling, and said that if the house failed to act they would stage a protest march.

Making a speech to the Indiana regiment on March 17, 1865, President Abraham Lincoln said, "Whenever I hear anyone arguing for slavery, I feel a strong impulse to see it tried on him personally."

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: IF I COULD I WOULD ALWAYS WORK IN SILENCE AND OBSCURITY AND LET MY EFFORTS BE KNOWN BY THEIR RESULTS.—EMILY BRONTE
(© 1975 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You always enjoy a challenge, and you may meet some interesting ones now. Tackle with vigor, but don't undertake ventures you would not usually consider.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): You may have an unusual opportunity to advance your interests immediately — one which could have an important bearing on the future as well. Accept!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Ride along with propitious influences now. Acquaint yourself with new trends and take measures as occasion demands.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A new contact may give you an unusual idea for furthering your goals. Your keenness and convincing words should help you in adapting and putting it over.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Scattered efforts will confuse, lead you off course. You can win big gains if you buckle down to essentials and STAY with them.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Mixed influences. Question and investigate where there is margin for error. Do not accept suggestions blindly.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): A good day for "pulling strings." Persons of influence will be highly amenable should you need their help.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Curb tendencies toward combativeness. You can be your independent self without being arrogant or domineering — and you'll gain more.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): If you have doubts

or uncertainties about launching a certain project, it would be well to heed. Try to find the underlying reason for your hesitancy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Some unprecedented situations or unusual propositions indicated. Study well but defer taking action until early next week.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Under good Uranus influences, your imagination is heightened. Give your creative ideas the "full treatment." They should work out well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Some difficulty in communication likely. Be especially careful in what you tell another "confidentially." It could boomerang.

YOU BORN TODAY have a keenly analytical mind and a dynamic personality. You always make yourself felt — whether in family, social or professional circles — and, you must admit, you love the feeling of this power you exert. Here, you must be careful not to use sheer force to achieve the influence you seek. The attention you crave, and must have, to be happy, can be achieved through performance alone.

Using your talents to the utmost and capitalizing on your tremendous energies, brilliant achievement can be yours — all that's needed to keep you in the limelight. There are many fields for you to conquer — art, music, literature, the theater, science, politics and statesmanship — but you will do far better if your goals include the betterment of mankind, rather than sheer glorification of self. Birthdate of: W. K. Roentgen, physicist, discoverer of X-ray; Gloria Swanson, film star.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — License renewal time often is an uneasy period for a broadcaster, especially if one or more citizen groups has asked the Federal Communications Commission to deny the renewal.

But broadcasters may become even more uneasy if a federal "Agency for Consumer Advocacy" proposed in a Senate bill is allowed to intervene in the license renewal process. Broadcasters face every three years.

The measure would let the agency intervene on behalf of consumers during proceedings of various federal regulatory agencies, including the FCC.

Despite claims that it's doubtful the ACA ever would intervene in broadcast license renewal cases, the National Association of Broadcasters is trying to knock out that provision.

Spokesmen for the Senate Government Operations Committee, which this month approved the bill 11-1, emphasize that it narrowly limits ACA intervention to cases of "substantial" consumer interest in a "marketplace transaction" where buying and selling occurs.

Dick Wegman, the committee's chief counsel, says it's highly unlikely the proposed agency ever would intervene in a license renewal case because "there's no marketplace transaction involved."

"As a practical matter, ACA wouldn't get into license renewal simply because its (proposed) budget is too limited," says Jerry Murphy of Congress Watch, a group formed by consumer advocate Ralph Nader, who supports the pending ACA bill.

Murphy says the agency might intervene in major cases involving the national consumer interest, "but it would be absurd to envision the ACA going in on every single license renewal. It's impossible."

The NAB, the leading industry group, represents the three TV networks, 541 TV stations and 4,025 radio stations. It says it takes no public position on the bill in general, or the FCC's specific inclusion in it.

It says it's only fighting the provision giving the ACA power to intervene in license renewal cases because it feels "there is no demonstrable need for a new federal agency to interfere in a process in which there already is substantial public participation."

Playing Card Ban Asked

PORT MORESBY, Papua New Guinea (AP) — A congress of women's associations called on the House of Assembly to revoke the law allowing playing cards to be used and sold. The women said their husbands were causing family problems by gambling, and said that if the house failed to act they would stage a protest march.

Making a speech to the Indiana regiment on March 17, 1865, President Abraham Lincoln said, "Whenever I hear anyone arguing for slavery, I feel a strong impulse to see it tried on him personally."

JUST IN CASE—Over 40 registered and licensed practical nurses from many communities in the Central Ohio area attended the day-long Disaster Nursing Course sponsored Tuesday in the Community United Methodist Church by the Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Activities were designed to prepare nurses to deal with immediate and extended nursing and medical needs created by disaster situations. The workshop, accredited for continuing education units through the Ohio Nurses Association and West Virginia and Kentucky Assoc., looked at what happens to a community and its individuals both medically and psychologically when a disaster strikes. Instructor was Clara Schuster, disaster nursing consultant and instructor for the Columbus Division of the Red Cross. She is also an instructor in Human Maturation and Adjustment at the Ohio State University School of Nursing.

Emphysema On The Increase

Emphysema is on the increase. In eleven recent years death from this disease almost tripled. Over 20,000 Americans die of it every year. The number receiving Social Security disability benefits because of emphysema goes upward steadily. It is now third among diseases in this respect. Something can be done about emphysema today.

The South Central Ohio Lung Assn., serving Fayette, Jackson, Lawrence, Pickaway, Pike and Ross Counties has mailed an appeal letter to individuals and places of business requesting support in the fight to curb emphysema.

Persons with emphysema are, for the most part, males between 50 and 70 years old. Women get emphysema, too, but not as often as men. A very high percentage of the people who have emphysema smoke cigarettes and have been heavy smokers for many years. Frequently, they live in areas where air pollution is a constant problem.

A person with emphysema doesn't develop the disease suddenly. It comes on gradually. He has probably had several very bad colds each winter for the past few years, each accompanied by a heavy cough, and often with chronic bronchitis. The cough often persists between colds and becomes chronic. The thing that usually brings the patient to his doctor is that he has begun to feel short of breath on exertion in the morning or evening or both. He may think he has asthma or heart disease.

It is believed that emphysema often is a late effect of chronic infection or irritation of the bronchial tubes. These tubes, the bronchi, connect the windpipe with the lungs. The bronchi look like branches of a tree, with the branches becoming smaller and smaller until each one ends in a cluster of tiny air spaces in the lung.

From these tiny spaces (alveoli) oxygen enters the blood when air is breathed in and waste gas (carbon dioxide) is removed from the lungs by breathing out. When the bronchi become irritated, some of the airways may be obstructed, trapping air in the lung beyond them. Or the walls of the tiny air spaces may tear, for various reasons. The small blood vessels in the walls disappear resulting in less contact between blood and air.

If infection or irritation continues or is repeated for a long time and the stretching and destruction of the walls of the air spaces goes on, the lungs as a whole may become enlarged, at the same time becoming less efficient in the exchanging oxygen for carbon dioxide. Enlarged lungs is what gives the disease its name, emphysema (which is a Greek word meaning "inflation").

Doctors can help emphysema patients live more comfortably with their disease. Different treatments help different patients. Some types of treatment are use of antibiotics, breathing therapy equipment, breathing retraining, carefully selected exercises, aids in keeping the lungs clear of excess fluids, and learning to make the best use of the breathing capacity they have.

Contributions from the Emphysema Mailing and Memorial Gifts will be used to benefit the person with emphysema in the South Central Lung Association Area. A Loan Closet has been established at the Chillicothe Hospital for breathing therapy equipment for emphysema patients. Plans are being made to establish other Loan Closets in hospitals in the area. At this time, doctors do not know how to prevent emphysema so continuing research is of vital importance. Other patient services are made available upon doctor referral. Films, literature and speakers are available upon request.

All contributions and Memorial Gifts should be sent to South Central Ohio Lung Association, 121 W. Main St., Chillicothe, Ohio 45601. Mrs. John Summers is the executive director and Mrs. Robert Goodson is the program associate for Pickaway and Fayette Counties. Representing Pickaway County on the board of directors is Paul Roan. Paul Diener is the vice president of the Association.

Women's Death Due To Traffic

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The March 18 death of Mary Kelley, 50, Cincinnati, has been ruled a traffic fatality by Hamilton County Coroner Dr. Frank Cleveland.

She was struck when she ran into the street from a bar March 16, telling other patrons she wanted to die, police said.

Boys Start Fire Fatal To 7 Persons

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Police said it began with two small boys playfully poking a stick into a gas heater in the cellar of a narrow, 3½-story row house on the South Side.

It ended with the building in charred ruin and seven persons burned to death in a flash fire. The victims included a pregnant woman and five children.

"Me and my friends saw smoke and ran to a firebox," said a youth who was at a nearby playground when the fire started Tuesday afternoon. "The firemen came and before I knew it they were carrying bodies out."

Firemen estimated 15 persons from several families had shared the dwelling. The remains of eight dogs also were found in the rubble.

Homicide Detective Michael Gorney said the two boys who were playing in the basement, aged 4 and 8, told him the stick caught fire in the heater and that one of them used it to ignite a shopping bag and push the bag under a bed.

The two boys were rescued by Gloria White, 42, but firemen summoned to the scene said the flames spread so quickly that they were unable to respond to cries for help from the second floor.

Gen. Omar Bradley Said Improving

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley is continuing to improve at the UCLA Medical Center, an Army spokesman says.

Women's Death Due To Traffic

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The March 18 death of Mary Kelley, 50, Cincinnati, has been ruled a traffic fatality by Hamilton County Coroner Dr. Frank Cleveland.

She was struck when she ran into the street from a bar March 16, telling other patrons she wanted to die, police said.

Boys Start Fire Fatal To 7 Persons

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Police said it began with two small boys playfully poking a stick into a gas heater in the cellar of a narrow, 3½-story row house on the South Side.

It ended with the building in charred ruin and seven persons burned to death in a flash fire. The victims included a pregnant woman and five children.

"Me and my friends saw smoke and ran to a firebox," said a youth who was at a nearby playground when the fire started Tuesday afternoon. "The firemen came and before I knew it they were carrying bodies out."

Firemen estimated 15 persons from several families had shared the dwelling. The remains of eight dogs also were found in the rubble.

Homicide Detective Michael Gorney said the two boys who were playing in the basement, aged 4 and 8, told him the stick caught fire in the heater and that one of them used it to ignite a shopping bag and push the bag under a bed.

The two boys were rescued by Gloria White, 42, but firemen summoned to the scene said the flames spread so quickly that they were unable to respond to cries for help from the second floor.
